CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

DURING

THE MIDDLE AGES.

The works to be published in octavo, separately, as they were finished; the whole responsibility of the task resting upon the editors, who were to be chosen by the Master of the Rolls with the sanction of the Treasury.

The Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury, after a careful consideration of the subject, expressed their opinion in a Treasury Minute, dated February 9, 1857, that the plan recommended by the Master of the Rolls "was well calculated for the accomplishment of this important national object, in an effectual and satisfactory manner, within a reasonable time, and provided proper attention be paid to economy, in making the detailed arrangements, without unnecessary expense."

They expressed their approbation of the proposal that each Chronicle and historical document should be edited in such a manner as to represent with all possible correctness the text of each writer, derived from a collation of the best MSS., and that no notes should be added, except such as were illustrative of the various readings. They suggested, however, that the preface to each work should contain, in addition to the particulars proposed by the Master of the Rolls, a biographical account of the author, so far as authentic materials existed for that purpose, and an estimate of his historical credibility and value.

PREFACE.

It was stated in the Preface to the First Volume of this work that several leaves of Kellawe's Register had been abstracted from the manuscript, as well as the whole of the proceedings of the first five years of Bishop Bury's pontificate.

In the expectation of being able to supply those deficiencies, I deemed it necessary to examine the Public Muniments during the periods when those two bishops occupied the palatinate of Durham, and to gather therefrom such entries as would furnish information likely to fill up the gaps in the portions of those two Registers now missing. The result of this examination appears in the ensuing pages.

The reader, however, should be apprised that some pieces have been introduced, which, in all probability, would not have found a place in the Register, even had it come down to us in a perfect state, but as they relate to the Palatinate, and contribute many links to the chain of its ecclesiastical and local history, they have not been rejected, especially as the information contained in them could not be obtained from other sources. Among these additions, though belonging to an earlier period, is the Roll of Pleas held at Durham in the thirty-third year of the reign of Edward I., when the bishopric had been seized into the hands of the Crown on account of the inordinate and intemperate ambition of Bishop Antony Bek. This Roll, the only record now extant of the same nature relating to the Palatinate, throws considerable and important light on the history of this "imperium in imperio," and gives in detail the various causes of the bitter quarrels between that prelate and Richard de Hoton, the turbulent prior of Durham, some account of which was given in the Preface to the First Volume.

The origin of the quarrel seems to have arisen from the bishop compelling the tenantry of the prior and convent of Durham to follow him to the war in Scotland, with horses and arms. Upon their returning home on the second occasion without receiving permission from him, he had some of them imprisoned at Durham. This they naturally considered an indignity, and made a party against him on the ground that they were Holyworkfolk and held their lands for the defence of the body of St. Cuthbert, and not at the bishop's pleasure, and that they ought not to do service beyond the limits of the bishopric, viz., the Tyne and the Tees, for either King or bishop.

Disgusted with the part played by the prior, the bishop determined to depose him. He then directed the monks to elect another prior in his stead. Upon their declining to comply with this mandate he translated H. de Luceby (prior of Holy Island) to the priory of Durham, and gave directions to his foresters of Wardale and his men of Tyndale to lay siege to the abbey, to keep the prior and monks in strict confinement, and not permit victuals of any description to be brought into the priory. In carrying out the bishop's orders they destroyed the aqueduct of the priory, broke down the gates of the cloisters, and besieged the prior and monks in their church for the space of three days, depriving them of food. They even dragged the prior from his stall and imprisoned him. This is the account given by Robert de Graystanes, the contemporary Durham historian, and it is fully confirmed by the Roll of Pleas in question.

It seems scarcely credible that such acrimony, as is developed in this Record, could have existed between two such dignified and eminent ecclesiastics.

The prior charges the bishop with dispossessing him of various manors and townships; with besieging the priory for nine weeks, and not permitting victuals of any description to be brought into the priory for the sustenance of the monks; with seizing and imprisoning for forty days the King's messengers, who brought the Royal Letters of Protection, and retaining the same letters in his own possession; with breaking down and destroying the conduit which conveyed water into the priory; with demolishing the convent mill, so that no corn could be ground therein; with compelling the prior's lay homagers to leave the priory; with breaking into the priory and refectory, wrenching open the chests, and carrying off their contents; with forcibly entering the cloisters and restricting the liberty of the monks, by not allowing them to go out for three days to obtain provisions, so that for forty-six monks they had only six loaves and sixteen herrings to live on; with dragging the prior from his stall and imprisoning him for sixteen weeks in the town of Durham, and tormenting him day and night "super collum suum ceram calidam degut-"tantem," so that he, believing himself to be dying, sought confession; with not permitting mass or matins to be celebrated, or bells to be rung; with closing the North Gate of Durham against the prior and his men; with dismantling his windmill at Jarewe; with preventing him from erecting a mill on his own soil at Holy Island; with imprisoning the prior's messengers sent by him to the King, and detaining the letters of which they were the bearers; with borrowing and refusing to return "duo paria Decretorum,[1] unum par

[1] The Decrees are ecclesiastical constitutions made by the Pope and Cardinals, and were first collected by Ivo, bishop of Chartres, who lived about the year 1114; they were afterwards perfected by Gratian, a Benedictine monk, in the year 1149, and allowed by Pope Eugenius to be read in schools, and alleged for law. The Decrees are more ancient than the Decretals, having their beginning from the time of Constantine the Great.

There are several MSS. of the Decrees in the library of the dean and canons of Durham which formerly belonged to the prior and convent.

[1] The Decretals are canonical epistles written by the Pope, or by the Pope and Cardinals, at the suit of one or more persons, for the ordering and determining of some matter or controversy, and have the authority of a law; and of these there are three volumes: the first whereof was compiled by Raymundus Barcinius, chaplain to Gregory IX., and at his command, about the year 1231; the second volume is the work of Boniface VIII., collected about the year 1298; and the third volume, called "Clementines," was made by Pope Clement V., and published by him about the year 1308.

Among the MS. belonging to the dean and chapter of Durham were many Decretals which formerly belonged to the prior and convent.

[2] Two copies of the "Historia "Tripartita" are mentioned in the List of Books (B. iv. 46) belonging to the prior and convent of Durham at different periods before the Reformation.

[3] This is probably Beda's Ecclesiastical History, which is still among the MSS. belonging to the dean and canons of Durham. (See Rud's Catalogue of the Durham MSS., p. 141). A copy is said to have been in the library of the prior and convent of Durham before the Reformation, and in all probability it is the same copy as that mentioned by Rud, p. 141.

[4] There were in the library of the prior and convent of Durham anterior to the Reformation several copies of the Life of St. Cuthbert. Perhaps the MS. here alluded to is that marked O at p. 432 of Rud's Catalogue, and described as "cu- "riosè illuminata."

of Decrees, they are not at Durham, but are in London, and that he is ready to give them up when asked to do so. The prior also charges the bishop's servants with withholding from him certain other books kept in a chest at Norham Castle, viz., Bibles, Missals, Decrees, Decretals, and other books. He likewise charges the bishop with borrowing silver plate and other things, and refusing to return them. He further charges the bishop with carrying off certain sheep at Fenham, and with forcibly intruding into the priory of Holy Island, and upon his manor of Fenham, and carrying away his corn and oxen and his wool from the manors of Pytingdon, Ketton, Hagrestan, Loulyn, and Hertilpole; also with seizing a porpoise at Holy Island, which was his property; with disseising his tenants of their common of pasture in Pencher.

He further charges the bishop with several other exactions and misdemeanors, which are denied by the bishop, and with such good success that judgment is recorded in his favour.

As I have given in the Table of Contents a detailed list of the documents which have been collected from the public muniments, I need not describe them further here.

In printing these excerpta I have adhered to the ancient custom of giving an exact transcript of the original Record, with all its abbreviations. Such has been the invariable practice from the first publication of our great National Register—Domesday Book—in the year 1783, to the present time.[1] Even the early publications of legal treatises, such as Glanville, Bracton, Britton, Fleta, the Year Books, &c., all appeared in the first editions with the words abbreviated, and some of them in black letter or Gothic type.

[1] The publication of Domesday Book was followed in 1802 by that of the "Taxatio ecclesiastica Angliæ et Walliæ auctoritate P. "Nicholai IV., circa 1291." In 1807 the "Inquisitiones Nonarum "temp. Edw. III.," and the "Testa "de Nevill" were published. The "Abbreviatio Placitorum," the Statutes of the realm, the "Valor "Ecclesiasticus temp. Hen. VIII.," and the "Rotuli Hundredorum, "temp. Hen. III., and Edw. I.," followed shortly afterwards. The "Rotuli Scotiæ," and the Placita de Quo Warranto were printed in 1818.

To such extent did the custom obtain of contracting words that judges have objected to receive in evidence writings where abbreviated words have been wrongly extended; for instance, an indictment was quashed because the word "burgal" was extended into burgaliter, on the ground that there was no such word either in classical or law Latin, the court alleging that many precedents warrant burgulariter to be good, but none was found to warrant burgaliter. The word "fil" having been extended into filius was objected to because it might signify more than one son, and even a daughter. An outlawry was quashed in Michaelmas Term 1649 because "px" was used as the abbreviation of "proximo" without any dash or mark of contraction; again an outlawry was reversed on the ground that "infra se" was used instead of "infra scr" for infra scriptam; another was reversed in Trinity Term 1650 because in the exigent "ut lest" was put as the abbreviation of utlegatus est. An outlawry is reported to have been reversed because the letter T was omitted in the word Teste in the capias; in another case there was a reversal

The Parliamentary Writs first appeared in 1827. The "Rotuli "Litterarum Clausarum" were commenced in 1833, so was also the "Rotulus Cancellarii de tertio "anno regni regis Johannis" and the Magnum Rotulum de Scaccario, 31 Hen. I. The Rotuli Selecti were published in 1834. The Proceedings and Ordinances of the Privy Council of England, commencing 10 Richard II. were commenced in 1834. The Rotuli Litterarum Patentium, the Rotuli Curiæ Regis, the Rotuli Normanniæ, the Rotuli de Oblatis et Finibus, Excerpta e Rotulis Finium, and the Pedes Finium were all commenced in 1835. The Rotuli Chartarum of the reign of John were published in 1837, and the Record of Caernarvon in 1838. The Pipe Rolls were commenced in 1844. The whole of the above-mentioned works are printed with the abbreviations occurring in Records. In Scotland there were published no less than 18 folio volumes, and in Ireland were printed a proportionate number of similar works.

because the writ was precipimus tibi instead of precipimus vobis to the sheriffs of London.

Much discussion has taken place as to the correct extension of the word Com in Bracton (p. 77, ed. 1640) in the sentence, "in rotulo de primis placitis post guer-" ram Com. Essex," it has been extended into "post " guerram communem," on the supposition that it meant " guerra communis," or guerra generalis, as it occurs in p. 240 of the same edition; whereas it means post guerram comitatu Essex, referring to pleas held before the King's justices at the assize in the county of Essex, as in p. 376*b*, where it occurs, "anno regni regis Henrici " secundi post guerram in Comitatu Essex."

Again, at p. 386 of the same volume, ꝺcr̃endo is expanded into discernendo instead of discurrendo; "semel " in cruce" into "scilicet in ecclesia;" qⁱ into quare instead of quid; ꝯt̃ has been extended cognatus instead of conventus; qꝫ expanded into qui instead of quia; Dī into Domini instead of Dei.

Some erroneous extensions of abbreviated words are ludicrous, and show the danger of attempting to extend contracted words.

The letters fri signify either fratri or frumenti, and Dugdale in his Monasticon (iii., p. 89), has extended those letters into the first word instead of the latter. The word occurs in an Inquisition, relative to the customs of the Hospital of Ripon, taken before the King's escheator on Sunday in the Octaves of the feast of the Virgin Mary, in the tenth year of the reign of Edward the Second, where it is said "that on the day of " the Blessed Mary Magdalen, yearly for ever, to every " poor person that cometh, there ought to be distributed " one wheaten loaf, worth a halfpenny, and one herring," but the printed reading has "unus panis fratri" instead of frumenti,[2] which of course makes nonsense of the Record.

[2] "debet distribui unus panis fratri valens obolum."

Again, by another mistake, Dugdale (iii., col. 1, p. 102) makes aïabus to signify animalibus instead of animabus,[1] thus making the Whitington almspeople pray daily for the animals of the donor and his wife, instead of their souls.

A very ridiculous illustration of a wrong extension occurs in the Ancient Martyrolge of St. Jerome, where mention is made of eleven martyrs, companions of St. Pamphilius. After the words Juliani cum Ægyptiis V., there occurs the word mil, the abbreviation for militibus. The copyist after the word Juliani has written in full "cum aliis quinque millibus," thus turning five martyrs into five thousand.[2]

A similar misreading occurs respecting S. Ursula and her companions, where the abbreviation XI. M. V., signifying eleven virgin martyrs, has been converted into 11,000 virgins.

Other instances can be adduced where the abbreviation of M. or Mil. is made to signify soldiers or thousands. The 10,000 Christian soldiers who are said to have been crucified in one day on Mount Ararat cannot be read without a smile of incredulity.

Another very curious and grave error occurs in the new edition of the Fœdera, vol. i., p. 144 (not one of Rymer's errors, to be noticed presently, but one of Dr. Adam Clarke, the chosen editor of the new edition of that great national work). In the entry as it stands Walter de Montgomery is styled Earl of Ferrers, whereas it should be Walter Montgomery, the knight of the Earl of Ferrers, and Dr. Clarke cites the patent of the eighteenth year of the reign of King John as the authority, but no such instrument occurs there; but on the Close Roll of that year the entry is quoted right, "Man-

" damus vobis quod talem saisinam habere faciatis Wal-
" tero de Mungumeri militi comitis de Ferrar."

Not only has Dr. Clarke turned comitis into comiti, but in the head note or description of the document he writes " Quod Walterus de Montgomery comes de Ferr'
" habeat," etc., instead of Walterus de Montgomery miles comitis de Ferr̃.

From the earliest times professional scribes[1] have resorted to various modes of diminishing their labour and saving the costly material they used. They sometimes endeavoured to render the meaning enigmatical, and to conceal it from the knowledge of the uninitiated by introducing signs, monograms, ciphers, and abbreviations in the place of the suppressed letters; they frequently wrote only the initial letter of each word,[2] especially when citing versification, as Qui f. M. u. n. q. s. s.—" Qui fit Mæcenas ut nemo quam sibi sortem." The single or initial letter was commonly used in inscriptions on coins, medals, and lapidary monuments. Occasionally they put two or three letters for one word, as in Em^{me} Cel^{nis} T.—Eminentissimæ Celsitudinis tuæ; and in the early times they joined together two or more letters, as Double initial letters signify a word in the plural number, as DD, domini; FF, fratres.

By compressing what they had to write scribes have occasionally rendered some sentences almost unintelligible even to expert decipherers of MSS.[3]

[1] It has not been satisfactorily ascertained what was the number of professional scribes in England, but it was undoubtedly very large. The art of writing was practised not only by ecclesiastics, but also by the laity. It is said by M. Chassant (Dictionnaire des Abreviations, p. xv.) that there were upwards of 10,000 copyists in the cities of Paris and Orleans before the discovery of printing.

[2] " Hic et scriptor erit felix, cui littera verbum est,
" Quique notis linguam super-et cursumque loquentis,
" Excipiens longas nova per compendia voces.

These lines in the 4th book of Manilius are cited by the authors of Nouveau Traitè (vol. 3, p. 586) as bearing on this subject.

[3] My friend, the Rev. Dr. Luard, has called my attention to the fol-

Many words in early printed books are so much abbreviated, as almost to baffle any conjecture of their meaning for; instance, "Sic hic e fal. sm qd. simplr: a e "pducible a Deo: g a e. et silr hic. A n e: g a n e "pducible a Do.," which signify "Sicut hic est fallacia "secundum quid simpliciter: a est producible a Deo. "Ergo a est, et similiter hic. A non est: ergo a non est "producibile a Deo." [1]

Chassant (Dictionnaire des Abreviations, p. xii.) states that compression was carried on to such an extent that the Emperor Justinian forbade the use of abbreviations in the laws, and the Emperor Basil,[2] the Macedonian, in the year 877, made a similar ordinance.

The learned authors of the Nouveau Traité de Diplomatique (vol. 3, p. 568) arguing against the assertion of Vossius (De arte grammat., lib. 1, p. 139) that Justinian did not banish the use of abbreviations, remark "Mais "n'est-il pas plus vraisemblable que son intention étoit lowing instance, showing the difficulty of filling up passages where initial letters only are given, and which very few persons could properly expand. Wats, in his edition of M. Paris, has made a sad hash of it.

"Signatum est super nos lu[men] "v[ultus] t[ui], D[omine]. Ded "[isti]. Ps. Deus misereatur "nostri, &c. Gloria Kyrieleison, "Christeleison, Kyrieleison. Pater "noster. Treating of abbreviations, the learned and patient Montfaucon, Palæog. Græca, p. 342, writes, "Sunt autem quædam abreviationes "adeo perplexe descriptæ, ut non "tironibus modo, sed etiam peritis "negotium facessant, occasioque "lapsus sint. Imo etiam vel in "obviis abreviationibus peritissi-"mos interdum niros errasse com-"perimus."

[1] Chevillier Orig. de l'imprim. par. 2, c. 1, p. 110.

[2] Basil, following the example of Justinian, made a compilation of the laws in 40 books. His successor added to them a supplement of 20 other books. These 60 books, which are known under the name of "Basilicorum Libri lx.," served for rules for jurisprudence of the Greek Empire until its destruction.

" d'en écarter toutes les espèces d'abréviations qui ouv-
" rent un vaste champ à la chicane, par l'obscurité et
" l'équivoque, qu'on y voit regner assez fréquemment."

So necessary was a knowledge of the value of ancient abbreviations to students and scholars that several works have been written to explain them. The authors of the Nouveau Traitè, iii. 547, make mention of a work entitled "Modus legendi abreviaturas in utroque jure," printed in 8vo. at Paris in 1498 by John Petit. They say that without a knowledge of these abbreviations it is impossible to decipher certain important MSS., which are without points or stops. Baringius published at Hanover in 1737 "Clavis diplomatica," the characters of which are in Gothic, commencing with the 13th century. The Abbé Godfroi de Bessel has given a table of such abbreviations as occur in MSS. of the 11th century. Anderson published in his great work entitled "Selectus
" Diplomatum et Numismatum Scotiæ Thesaurus" Tables of Abbreviations found in Scottish records and diplomas from the 11th century downwards; and Walther published his magnificent "Lexicon Diplomati-" cum abbreviationum," in which he denotes the various ages in which the several abbreviations are common. The authors of the "Nouveau Traité de
" Diplomatique" have written a learned and exhaustive account (vol. iii. pp. 537 et seq.) of abbreviations commonly found in ancient MSS., and they lament that France has not contributed her knowledge on this interesting and useful science. This reproach, however, has been lately removed by a valuable work by M. L. Alph. Chassant, entitled "Dictionnaire des Abreviations
" Latines et Françaises, usitées dans les Inscriptions
" lapidaires et metalliques, les Manuscrits et les Chartes," a third edition of which was issued in 1866. I need scarcely say that, in my tables of abbreviations, I have freely used all the works above mentioned, together with the table I published in the preface to the "Rotuli
" Litterarum Clausarum, 1836."

The great objection to printing in what is commonly called "Domesday type" is the unsightly appearance it presents, as well as the difficulty in reading the abbreviations; this, however, is more ideal than real, and will be readily surmounted with common attention.[1]

In printing ancient chronicles and historical pieces a plan different from that observed in publishing records has been generally adopted.[2] All abbreviated words are extended, and in very numerous instances so erroneously as to be almost unintelligible. For instance, Archbishop Parker, and Wats after him, expand rõẽ eccle into ratione ecclesiæ, making nonsense of the sentence, whereas it should be Romanæ ecclesiæ. They both extend p̃cõsis donativis into præconsis donativis, instead of pretiosis donativis; this is an important instance, because Huillard Bréholles, in his translation of Matthew Paris, naturally not understanding præconsis, proposes and translates præconcessis, and Giles quietly follows him without a word of doubt or explanation. Again Parker and Wats misread and print constanť constanter instead of Constantinopolis, and Parker in another place expands dem̄-

[1] The Rev. Lambert Larking, one of the most eminent and accurate antiquaries of the day, was induced, by the advice of some friends, to print in extenso a record made in 1338, for the Camden Society, but he did so with regret. "I confess," says Mr. Larking, "that my opinion leaned strongly "to the contracted form, as more "accurately correct, and as giving "the genuine text. All readers of "ancient MSS. know that it is "practically impossible to give, "always with certainty, the true "extension. Instances constantly "occur in which there is nothing "in the context to guide a copyist "in his choice between singular "and plural. Now my work is "completed I feel some regret "that I adopted a plan that can "never be satisfactory." It is the opinion of some archaic scholars that to write words in full which are abbreviated in the Record is quite as objectionable as the changing the ancient into modern orthography.

[2] The custom did not obtain in the earlier stages of printing, as may be seen in the productions of Caxton, Wynkyn de Worde, and others, as well as in the early Law Treatises in England. Even as late as the year 1795 David Macpherson, in his edition of Wyntoun's Chronicle, had special types cast for his work, not those commonly known as the Domesday type.

rantes into dejurantes instead of demonstrantes. In Wanley's transcript of the Dunstable Annals from which Hearne printed, occurs ĩcarvĩ instead of vicarium; and p̃visum ẽ has been misread pro infume; sp̃e has been expanded into spem instead of specie. Cā (causa) has been mistaken for eam, and also for tam. Savile in his "Scriptores post Bedam" has misread nimis for minus, and turned consecranda into consectanda; invitus into munus; juvenilis into militaris; succensæ into incensæ; junctis into invictis; sub quibus into bustis quibus; absolvat into describit; consecutus into insecutus. Again the word pat̃ has been wrongly extended pariter, instead of pater; mat. has been expanded into martyr instead of mater; apl. has been misread amplius, instead of apostolus; int̃ (inter) has been turned into intelligitur; several other instances could be adduced of extraordinary misreading in each instance, making unintelligible nonsense, and the signification cannot always be ascertained, especially when it depends upon the word misinterpreted. Many of these may perhaps be ascribed rather to a misreading of the MS. by the printer than to a misinterpretation of the abbreviation.

In the Decem Scriptores the misreadings are remarkable, and even the accurate Wharton in his Anglia Sacra is very frequently at fault.

In Rymer's Fœdera upwards of 4,320 words have been misread and wrongly printed in the first fourteen volumes of the first edition of his work, "the fourteenth" of which was the last volume" Rymer himself passed through the press. I give several of them in proof of my assertion. Many of them are of such a startling nature as to be almost incomprehensible, and the only explanation I can offer is that his scribe misread the abbreviated word, and Rymer not understanding the passage has allowed it to stand uncorrected, or altered it conjecturally to make sense, instead of referring to the original.

Mutuo for invicem; intimationem for insinuationem;

I have adduced a very large number of instances, though by no means all, of words wrongly extended in the first fourteen volumes of the Fœdera, because nearly all the pieces therein introduced were taken from the Public Records. I have not, however, given the passages where these misreadings occur, for fear of occupying too much space, perhaps some may think that too much has been already devoted to this subject; but if the critic will compare the first edition published in Rymer's lifetime with the second edition issued by Tonson, with Holmes's corrections, he will at once see that I might have increased the number of errata by several hundreds.

One of the disadvantages arising from these errors is that many of these misread words have been cited and accepted in Mediæval Latin and French Dictionaries, as authorities for the use of such words. I have not, however, considered it necessary to give one fourth of the misreadings I found. I merely wish to establish my point that Records ought not, as a rule, to be printed in full, or rather that abbreviated words for legal purposes ought not to be extended. I am, however, fully aware that strong objections against that course are entertained by some persons whose opinions are of great weight; but, on the whole, I believe it is safer to adhere to the old English practice of printing Record works in fac-simile. One of the grounds for this opinion is that, in case of destruction by fire or damp or other mischance of a Public Record, of which no copy exists, there would remain evidence of what were the exact words of the destroyed document.

Let it not, however, be supposed that Rymer is the only editor who has fallen into the error of extending words wrongly; I would, however, direct attention to Fenn's edition of the Paston Letters published in 1872–1875. Mr. Gairdner, in his recent edition of those Historical Papers, points out and corrects several instances of misreadings of abbreviated words. For instance, says Mr. Gairdner, at the end of letter printed in Fenn, Vol. III., 94, are the words—"should not be worth an haughe "Jon, &c." The absence of punctuation in the MS., and the peculiar style of diction here misled the editor, who supposed that the haw or berry of the white thorn must then have been popularly called "a haugh John;" but if we supply punctuation, and extend the contraction (I'o), the passage would stand, "should not be worth "an haughe. Ideo, &c."

Again, at p. 346 of the Third Volume, the sentence precor g̃ Deum is extended, "Precor gratiosum Deum, instead of "Precor ergo Deum."

Added to the Excerpta, derived from the Public Muniments, are extracts relating to the Palatinate of Durham taken from the unique manuscript known as Richard de Bury's Letter Book.

On the first page of the MS., as it now stands, there is written in a hand of the reign of Richard the Second, or even later, "Lib' Epistolaris qᵒndā dñi Ricardi de "Bury Epi Dunelm'," and immediately above those words in writing somewhat later, "Lib' Mōcħ Sči Edm̃i Reg̃ ꝛ "Martiř." From these two memoranda, it seems probable that this was one of the MSS. which were sold at the bishop's death, and purchased by the Monastery of Bury St. Edmund's, out of consideration of its late owner having adopted the name of Bury, on account of its proximity to the place of his birth.

It is a small folio written in a hand of the 14th century. Several leaves at the commencement of the volume are missing, the first remaining being folio 53. There are now only 240 leaves, but formerly, before the volume was put into its present binding, there would seem to have been as many as 1094. No less than three different paginations occur in the volume, which it would be very confusing to describe. The most ancient begins with folio 53, and continues, though with frequent gaps, to folio 1094, where the volume ends abruptly. Folios 53, 54, 55, and 56, according to the oldest pagination, are much mutilated, and several leaves, in different parts of the volume, are wanting. For the greater facility in consulting the MS. I have renumbered each leaf, at the foot of the page, in pencil, on the left hand corner, from 1 to 240. The volume was formerly No. 21 of the Porkington Library, and belonged to the late Lord Harleck; and I take this opportunity to acknowledge my grateful thanks for his lordship's permission to use the volume in any way that best suited my purpose.

The volume contains copies of letters and public documents from sovereigns, popes, and other illustrious and dignified personages, extending from the reign of King Henry the Second down to that of Edward the Third, nearly all of them without any date, and not arranged in chronological sequence.

Several do not mention either the names of the sender or receiver of the letter. Their initials being the only indication of their names or offices. In numerous instances only the marrow of the document is given. Many pages are devoted to the various forms of addressing letters to distinguished persons and officials, as well as to friends and relatives; in fact this part of the collection may be termed a complete guide to letter writing of the period. The collection was, perhaps, made for the purpose of precedents, to assist Bury in framing similar letters when he was Chancellor of England.

The present MS. is evidently a contemporary copy of originals unhappily now lost, which, in all probability, were brought to his residence, and transcribed in the book now before us by the various clerks he kept for collecting and transcribing documents, for it is a well attested fact that when he held the offices of Chancellor of England and Treasurer of the Exchequer he had a numerous staff of assistants constantly employed on such work.

I have not been able to discover where the original documents which are copied are deposited. A great many of them occur on the French, Gascon, and Roman Rolls; but it is clear that the entries in Bury's MS. were not derived from those Records.

There are about twelve documents which are found in Kellawe's Register, but those were evidently not copied from that manuscript, as the entries there contain words and paragraphs which are not in the Register.

I have printed all the documents occurring in the Letter Book which relate to Durham, and I give, in the ensuing pages, a brief description of the remainder; a great number of which concern possessions in France then appertaining to the Crown of England.

f. 58. The King to the Pope. On the 1st September certain robbers issued from a wood, some six or seven miles from the town of Derlington, and attacked and robbed Gaucelin, Cardinal Priest of SS. Marcelin and Peter, and Lucas, cardinal deacon of St. Mary in Viâ latâ, on their way from York to Durham, to assist at the consecration of Louis [de Beaumont], bishop elect there, on Sunday the Feast of the Translation of St. Cuthbert, on the first day of this present month. It is said that the robbery was intended upon the bishop elect and his brother, Lord Henry de Beaumont, and others. The cardinals and their train after some ill-usage were allowed to proceed to Durham; the robbers retaining in their custody the bishop elect, his brother, and their train. The King being away in the war with Scotland at the time, only heard the news on his arrival at York. f. 59. King Edward to the collectors of the procurations of Gaucelin, Cardinal Priest of SS. Marcelin and Peter, and Lucas, cardinal deacon of St. Mary in Viâ latâ. The dean and chapter of the King's free chapel of St. Martin le Grand and his other chapels have informed the King that though these chapels are exempt from all ordinary jurisdiction and exactions, yet the collectors have compelled heavy procurations to be paid for the use of the said cardinals. The King, therefore, forbids such payment. [See Rot. Rom. 19 Edw. II., m. 6, and Rot. Claus. 35 Edw. I., m. 11 in dorso.]

The King requests a prebend for him in the cathedral church of Canterbury. [See also ff. 52b, 62b.] [See Rot. Rom. 11 Edw. II., m. 12 in dorso.]

63b. King Edward [II.] to Pope J[ohn XXII.] The King had built a house for the friars preachers at Langeley, in fulfilment of a vow, and which house had been confirmed to them by Pope Clement V., but they cannot receive it or hold possession of it. The King's mother during her lifetime, out of motherly affection for the same Order, had desired that there should be introduced into the kingdom sisters of that Order, who should be endowed and lodged at her expense. The King therefore requests that the habitation held by the brethren of the Order at Guildford, in the diocese of Winton, may be given up to the sisters, and that the sisters may exercise the same privileges as other sisters of the Order, by being obedient to the Master and Provincial Prior of the Order, and that the brethren of Langeley may be selected to say mass, &c. [See also f. 59.]

f. 64. King Edward to the Captain and Community of the city of Genoa. Stating that he had directed Manentus Francisci, merchant, to bring 5,000 quarters of corn from Genoa to England for the King's use during his wars in Scotland. In order to carry out this engagement Manentus agreed to buy 2,800 salmos of corn through the agency of Lippus Bonenseigne, merchant of Florence, from Thomas Grilo, partner of Daniel Grilo, for Boniface Lomelin, partner of Frauncekyn Lomelin and his fellows, merchants of Genoa, to be delivered for a certain sum in the port of Sandwich within three weeks of July then next following; afterwards the Genoese merchants made false excuses to withdraw from their engagement. They were twice ordered by merchants carrying out merchant law to fulfil their contract; understanding that the Genoese merchants have fraudulent intentions he desires that they may be compelled to perform their agreement; begs the captain and community to let him know by bearer their intentions in the matter.

f. 65. The King [II.] to the Pope [John XXII.]. A minorite friar named Thomas de Rivariis was made

Bishop of St. Andrews in Scotland by Clement V. William [1] the bishop being deposed and condemned to imprisonment in consequence of his betrayal of the King's late father. The proof of this cannot be found in the register either by the said Thomas or the King; but it is known that William supported the King's enemy, Robert de Brus. The King, therefore, requests the Pope to summon the bishop, as he continues to profane the divine offices, and to let Thomas replace him. [? A.D. 1318.] [See f. 232 ?]

f. 65b. King Edward to Vitalis, Cardinal Priest of St. Martin in Montibus. William de Shotesham has been appointed on the King's presentation to the church of Rotherfield, in the diocese of Chichester, and he has been summoned by the Cardinal to appear in the court of Rome. f. 65b. King Edward to B. the Venerable Father in Christ. The King has recommended that Henry de B[urghersh], canon of York, may be made Bishop of Winchester; but he understands that the Pope has reserved that see, as well as Lincoln which is also vacant, to himself. Requests that Henry de B[urghersh] may be created Bishop of Lincoln, as Bartholomew de Badlesmere, his uncle, steward of the household, is desirous for his preferment, as are the nobles, James de Florentia, Archdeacon of Winchester, and Master Nicolas Wodelok, canon of St. Paul's, London, who are sent to explain matters. gift, by reason of the consecration of Thomas, Bishop of Worcester. William de Shotesham is now in possession. The Pope believed it belonged to the Bishop of Rochester, but on the rolls being searched it was found that the Bishop of Rochester and the Earl of Gloucester and Hertford have alternately presented. On the Earl's death he left three sisters his co-heirs. The presentation had been assigned by law to the first who married Roger Damori; the Earl's lands are in the King's hands; any revocation would be damaging to her. 70. The King to Pope [John XXII.] Nicholas de Wisebech, a friar preacher, has come back from Rome and brought with him the Pope's letters of credence, and repeated the Pope's words, which were written down by the King in the presence of J., Bishop of Norwich, and R., Bishop of Sarum. The letters of credence are for A., Bishop of Hereford, Robert de Worth, sub-dean of the cathedral of St. Mary at Sarum, and Simon de Claibi, rector of the church of Massingham (Norwich diocese), who are employed upon that business. [Circa A.D. 1320.]

A merchant, named Henry Nasard, had been in Brabant to convey cloth for the use of the King and Isabella, his Queen. The Flemish being suspicious arrested the cloth on its way through France. The King of France hearing for whom the cloth was intended gave a pass for it. The King therefore returns thanks for this courtesy.

f. 71b. The King to the King of France. Assinus de Gaillard, in his capacity as lieutenant of his seneschal of Gascony, took the mayoralty of the city of Aix [Acqs] (Aquensis) into his hands, considering that Dominic de Monte Olivo was not sufficiently severe in punishing excesses. Peter Arne and other citizens carried out his instructions, and were, therefore, persecuted in the courts of the King of France, and their goods being seized they were banished therefrom. He desires the restoration of Peter Garsia and Bonino, according to the agreement made by the two kings on the 2nd of July in last year.

Totto Guidi states that King Edward is in his debt, and asks payment. Bartholomew de Badlesmere and Hugh Dispenser, Edward's late nuncios to Rome, also ask payment for Totto; afterward Totto released Edward and gave up his bond to Anthony de Pessaigne; afterwards Edward assigned the money to the said Anthony on the issues of the duchy of Aquitain, in which duchy Anthony received more than that sum. Edward desires a speedy account thereof. The King to Pope J[ohn XXII.] In consequence of the lands, &c. of Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloster and Hertford, deceased, being in the King's hands, the presentation to the church of Rotherfield (Chichester diocese) belongs to the King. He has therefore presented William de Shotesham, who has been inducted by the Bishop of Chichester, and is in possession. He is interfered with by some persons who assert that the presentation belongs to the Pope, because of the consecration of Thomas, Bishop of Worcester, and that Vitalis, Cardinal Priest of St. Martin in Montibus, has already been presented and seeks possession, and cites the other. f. 77. The King to L. [Cardinal], Deacon of St. Mary in Viâ latâ. Asks that he will advance the cause of the above-named J. de Wrotham with the Pope.

f. 77. The King to Pope J[ohn XXII.] Some men of evil repute on behalf of the Prior of Bynham [a cell of St. Albans] have endeavoured to get the Abbot of St. Albans summoned before the Pope, on the ground that he has treated the Pope's nuncios with disrespect. He asks the Pope to hold the abbot guiltless, and speaks in praise of the abbey and Abbot of St. Albans. He states that Brother William de Somerton, whom the abbot had recently made prior of Byneham, endeavoured to subtract the cell from his obedience and drew the abbot into the suit before the papal court. The King asks the Pope to unite with him in support of the abbot. See Rot. Rom. 12 Edw. II., m. 9.]

f. 77^{b}. The King to the Pope. John, Bishop of Dol, being aged and infirm wishes to retire. The King is desirous that his cousin Guy de Balle [? Valle], canon of Ageñ, and rector of the church of Maidenstan, in th diocese of Canterbury, shall succeed him. Begs the Pope to sanction the resignation and succession. [Rot. Rom. 14 Edw. II., m. 4.]

f. 78. The King to Pope J[ohn XXII.] John de Neville, Knt., and others have returned and given him the Pope's messages vivâ voce, and have received the King's reply. Robert de W., of the Order of St. Augustine, professor of theology, having been the King's nuncio in the said business, on his return has given the same messages more fully. Asks credence and favour for the said Robert and the other nuncios.

f. 78. King Edward to the King of Cyprus. Robert de Baybroke, John de Stone, and Robert de Hatcombe of the Order of Preachers, are going, by command of the Master of their Order, to preach the Catholic faith to the Saracens. The King requests favour for them. [Rot. Claus. 14 Edw. II., m. 22 in dorso.]

f. 78^{b}. The King to Pope J[ohn XXII.] It is necessary to make some defence against the Scots rebels; such defence may be made by the Bishop of Durham. Clement V. reserved the appointment to this bishopric to the Pope, which reservation, Master William, the Pope's chaplain and nuncio in England, intimated to the prior and chapter of the church of Durham, previous to their election; yet, in contempt of this information, the prior and chapter have elected a monk and asked the King's assent, which the King has refused, being loth to do anything against the said reservation. Being anxious for the state of the Marches, he requests provision for his cousin Louis de Beaumont, treasurer of the church of Sarum, and asks credence for Andrea Sapiti and Raymond Subirani. (Printed at p. 391 in this volume.)

f. 78^{b}. King Edward to Philip, King of France and Navarre. Letters of credence for John Abel, Kt., and Master Richard de Burton, clerk. [A.D. 1318.] [Rot. Franc. 11 Edw. II., m. 12.] [See f. 75.]

f. 79. King Edward to Pope [John XXII.]. Master

Henry de Perci, rector of the church of Wharrum, is going to the papal court. Asks favour for him. [See f. 60b.]

f. 79. The same to the same. John Alacris, Kt., with letters of credence of the noble lords, Bertrand de Gutto [del Goth], vicecomitis Leomanensis et Amanevi domini de Lebreto has conveyed information to the King that Clement V., the Pope's predecessor, supported him (the Pope) while he held an inferior position. He being now dead, the said Bertrand and Amanevus and others are devoted to Pope John. It has been insinuated that they are insincere and meditate treachery to the Pope. The King speaks in their defence, and dwells on the good service they have done him; he begs the Pope to moderate his anger. The King will himself punish them should they give cause for any grievance. Asks credence for Anthony Pessaigne of Genoa, seneschal of Gascony, and the King's clerk, Master William de Casis, professor of laws, both messengers on the same subject. [See also f. 57.] [Circa A.D. 1317.] [See Rot. Rom. 11 Edw. II., m. 14 in dorso.]

f. 79b. Walter, Archbishop of Canterbury, to Arnold, Cardinal Deacon of St. Mary in Porticu. In favour of William de Ayeremyne his own and the King's clerk, who, with some other persons, is falsely accused in the court of Rome of occupying the benefices of living persons. He asserts his innocence. The King, exercising his right, first gave the prebend of Bụckedene, in the church of Lincoln, to the said William, who, in the presence of the King, his Council, and the Archbishop, protested that he would do nothing to the prejudice of the church of Rome, and was accordingly admitted and inducted by the diocesan of the place. Begs support for him.

f. 80. [. . . . .] to the Pope. He has many times requested that brother Richard de Pontefract, of the Order of Preachers, may be appointed to a bishopric in Scotland when one should fall vacant; a death has caused Dunblane to be vacant.[1] Asks that brother Richard de Pontefract may have it. [See Rot. Rom. 13 Edw. II., m. 4.]

f. 80. The King to the Venerable G., Cardinal Priest of SS. Marcellinus and Peter. In behalf of Walter, Bishop of Exeter, whose predecessors had received from the King's progenitors the royal free chapel of Boseham (Chichester diocese), with the parish churches of Boseham and Chudeham annexed to the said chapel, which, being exempt from ordinary jurisdiction, the King had asked the Pope to render it also exempt from the jurisdiction of the bishop and archdeacon of Chichester, and let it stand equal in immunities to other royal chapels. The said cardinal and L., Cardinal of St. Mary in Viâ latâ, have while in England acquainted themselves extra judicially with the subject. Asks the cardinal to use his influence to induce the Pope to favour the King's desire. [See Rot. Rom. 14 Edw. II.]

f. 80. The King to Pope J[ohn XXII.] The Pope's letters by the bearer, Brother Nicholas de Wisbeach of the Order of Preachers, have been received. Asks credence for Nicholas. [See Rot. Rom. 13 Edw. II.] [See f. 75^{b}.]

f. 80^{b}. King Edward [II.] to the Pope. He and his nobles have long contemplated a marriage between his firstborn son Edward and S., daughter of R., Count of Hainault and Seland, Count and Lord of Frisland; they are in the third degree of consanguinity. He wishes them to receive a dispensation. Charles, King of France, had previously obtained a dispensation, with a view to the union of his daughter with the said Edward. Notwithstanding this the King desires that his former request may be complied with. [See Rot. Rom. 12 Edw. II., m. 10, et Rot. Rom. 13 Edw. II., m. 7.] [See also f. 76.]

[1] The vacancy here referred to was occasioned by the death of Nicholas de Balonyle. It seems that the recommendation of Richard de Pontefract was not successful.

f. 81. King Edward to Philip, King of France and Navarre. Having heard that his cousin Aymer de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, whom he had recently sent with other peers and prelates to the court of Rome, had been forcibly captured near Staunpes, by John de la Melerie, aided by some other evildoers, on his return to Edward from that court, prays King Philip to aid in the delivery of the said Aymer. [See Rot. Claus. 10 Edw. II., m. 7 in dorso.]

f. 81. King Edward to his Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux for the time being. It is said that the people of the duchy [of Aquitain] are oppressed by sundry officials. In order that some reformation shall take place, by the advice of his council the King made the following orders, viz.,—That all our ministers and officials who hold their offices under you in the duchy, otherwise than for term of life, shall be removed without delay, and other fit persons put in their place, &c. That no one shall hold more than one office. That all ministers are to reside in their offices. That no one hold the "Officium Scribanie" in the said duchy unless he be competent for the same, &c.

f. 81b. The King to William de Cazis, his judge ordinary of Agen, Arnald de Codico and John Guitardi his clerks. His seneschal of Perigord, William de Tholosa, is bound to account to the King for certain profits which he has received during his office, over and above the assignment by the King to the late Pope Clement V., which the King's officers, and not the Pope, ought to have received. He gives a commission to them or any two of them to audit the accounts, and having made the usual allowances to give a release.

f. 81b. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony for the time being. Whereas Robert Curtiler and Roger Broun have made complaint that a merchant named William Simonis has arrested at Bordeaux a ship called the "Margaret" of Gosseford in their custody, trading to the duchy, in consequence of its being detained they lost the freight thereof. He desires him to attend to the case and do justice according to merchant law and the legal custom of those parts.

f. 82. The King to John, Bishop of Ely, and Almeric de Credonio his cousin. Sends to them orders under his seal respecting the custody of certain castles in the duchy [of Aquitain], and the condition of the keepers thereof and his other officers; desires them to examine the articles and ordinances as well as others previously sent, and to take such action, with the assistance of his clerk, Adam de Lymbergh, constable of Bordeaux, as may be for the King's good and the better government of those parts, and should there be any obstructions to inform him thereof; the constable will inform them that a great part of the subsidy granted to the King remains to be levied; he commissions them to levy it. [Rot. Vascon. 16 Edw. II., m. 10.]

f. 82. King Edward to all prelates, barons, knights, freeholders, &c. of the said duchy [? Aquitain]. Desiring them to discuss with Anthony de Pessaigne of Genoa, seneschal of the duchy, the affairs thereof; he has sent for him, and during his absence has left Amanevus de Fossato in charge of the duchy. Desires them to render him obedience as vice-seneschal.

f. 82. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux. For good service done to his father, the late King Edward, as well as to himself, he had granted to Peter Descorce,[1] the office of the serjeanty, viz.,—all executions of the King's seal and counterseal, to hold during pleasure. As appears by letters patent, he has now granted it to him during life. [A.D. 1315.] [See also f. 97b.] [See Rot. Vasc. 9 Edw. II., m. 12, and Rot. Vasc. 12 Edw. II., m. 7 dors.]

[1] Petrus de Scorce on Rot. Vasc. 9 Edw. II., m. 21; but on m. 12 of the same Roll he is called Peter Descorce. It also occurs on Gascon. Roll, 1 Edw. III., m. 3 as Petrus de Scorce.

f. 82. King Edward to his Seneschal of Gascony. William Sauns du Miraile makes complaint that, whereas the mayor, jurats, and community of the city of Bordeaux granted 500 dolia of wine to the King for the expedition of the Scotch war, the said mayor, jurats, and community, instigated by Reymund Vitali, taxed at 138 dolia the said William and three other citizens, and imprisoned William and seized his goods. Desires him to investigate the cause, summon the mayor, &c., and Reymund, and recompense William for the 138 dolia, and pay his damages. [? A.D. 1318.]

f. 83. King Edward to all seneschals. &c. in the said duchy. He has taken the abbot and convent of Userth and their possessions into his special protection.

f. 83. King Edward to the Seneschals of Gascony and Perigord. Permission to make an addition to an old castle at Molers,[1] if any inhabitant or jurat of the Bastide of Molers should be imprisoned there, and be proved guiltless, he should pay nothing, ratione prisonagii, to the keeper of the said tower; but if guilty, he should pay 12*d.* current money of these parts. [Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 10.]

f. 83. King Edward to the Mayor and Jurats of the city of Bordeaux. Whereas they are indebted to Reymund de Lemovicis [Limoges], clerk and their co-citizen, in divers sums, which he has expended by their order for the service of the city, he repeats for the second time his desire that they should pay what is due. If they do not obey he has ordered his seneschal of Gascony to do justice. [See f. 89b.]

f. 83. King Edward to the Seneschal of Perigord. Fulco de Rossilhone states in his petition that he holds the castle of Urselles with alta et bassa justicia, and that within the territory of the castle certain tenants pay captennium for every pair of oxen one "emyna" of corn and one quarter of oats to the King. The seneschal is desired to inquire by a jury into the nature and value of the captennium, and by whom it is paid. [See Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 10 dors.]

f. 83b. King Edward to his Seneschal of Gascony, stating that Peter de la Rua, his notary, has shown that Guillerinus de Tholosa, the King's seneschal of Perigord, Cahors, and Limoges, had given in the King's name to the said Guillerinus [? Peter] the scrivining (scribaniam) and the customary emoluments thereof of the papers or registers of the court of the said seneschalcy, with all publications and other things to the scrivining pertaining of the assisagia of the court of the said seneschalcy of S. Asterius and Palnatus, and of all other places, vills, and bastides belonging to the said seneschalcy, to hold in the same manner for his life; but the said Guillerinus is to execute all processes touching the King's right without salary. The seneschal of Gascony is to examine the grant, and confirm it under the King's seal in use there. [See f. 86b.]

f. 83b. The King to the Seneschal of Perigord. Peter de la Rua, clerk of Lyndia, in the diocese of Perigord, has shown to the King that he holds the scribania "curiæ Banilie" of Lyndia, of the demise of Arnald de Campena, Knight, when he was seneschal of that place. If the seneschal shall find that the said Peter diligently performs his duties he is to allow him to continue his office. [See Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 12.]

f. 84. King Edward to all seneschals, &c. of the said duchy. Informs them that he has taken William de Vineis, chaplain, and all his possessions under his special protection.

f. 84. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. Forwards the petition of Aspanus Darans. Desires him to examine it and do full justice to his cause, taking into consideration his services to the late King Edward.

f. 84. The King to the Vicar, Priors of Arts (vicario, prioribus arcium et), and vẽ justiciæ and council, and people of Florence. Desires to repay to William the merchant, called persona Fulberti, the fifty marks which he had lent to the late King Edward ; he directed their co-citizen Emeric de Friscobaldis to pay the said William the fifty marks. William, however, states he has not received the money, and that Emeric had gone to Florence. The King therefore desires the matter may be sifted by them and justice done lest he retaliate on their co-citizens in England.

f. 84^{b}. King Edward to the Seneschal of Agenois. The consuls and university of Agen have petitioned the King in the names of themselves and the merchants of Agen, stating that they have appointed proctors to inquire into and decide causes between them and the men of Bordeaux respecting an imposition called mala tolta. The said proctors have received certain sums of money for the purpose of such inquiries, and have neglected to account for the same. The King therefore directs that the said proctors be compelled to do right in the matter. [See Rot. Vasc. 9 Edw. II., m. 21.]

f. 85. King Edward to Master Peter de Galetiano, treasurer of Agen. The King was indebted to William de Tholosa, merchant, in the sum of 455*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* sterling, which had been expended in the purchase of sixteen large horses bought beyond sea and sent to London in the month of March in the 8th year of his reign for the King's use, and other expenditure. The King therefore desired his seneschal of Gascony to repay the said money to William de Tholosa out of the subsidies, &c. of the duchy. [See Rot. Vasc. 11 and 12 Edw. II., mm. 9 and 13 dors.]

f. 85. King Edward to the seneschal, constable, &c. of the duchy. Stating that he has taken under his special

f. 85. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux. It is shown in behalf of William Arnald de Salviniaco, citizen of Bayonne, that Arnald de la Comere, deceased, was bound by public instruments to William de Montecute in 350*l.* sterling, and that at his death he had only letters patent, under seal of Edward the King's late father for 325*l.*, which letters the said William had during his lifetime given into the custody of John Guitard, clerk, and the said William now asks for justice. The King desires the seneschal to hear both sides of the question, and to pay to the said Arnald de la Comere the demand out of the goods, &c. of the said William Arnald.

f. 85^{b}. The King to the Seneschal of Gascony. On behalf of the inhabitants of Laburte. Relative to the mares and cows of strangers being allowed to pasture in the King's meadows and pastures, which is against the customs of the inhabitants and gentry there. There has been much disagreement in the matter. The King desires the matter to be inquired into and justly decided. Edward states that he has confirmed by his letters, sealed with the seal of the court of Gascony, the grant made by Stephen Ferioli, late seneschal of Aquitain, to Ely Gaucelini, of Libornia, of the office of notary of the duchy.

f. 85^{b}. King Edward confirms the grant made by Stephen Ferioli, late seneschal of the duchy of Aquitain, to Ely Gaucelin of Libornia, clerk, of the office of notary of the duchy, under the seal of Gascony.

f. 86. King Edward to John Mauveysins, captain of Calais. The Council of France and Lord Gautier de Castelione, constable of France, have made excuse for not meeting the King's people at Whitsand on the subject of the ship called Dromond. Robert de Kendale, constable of Dover Castle and warden of the Cinque Ports, has accepted the excuse; consequently the Council will act in such a manner as will require no further interference. [? circa 1318.]

f. 86. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux. He has given the custody of his castle of Saintes to his valet Gailard Assaillit at the usual wages. Has also granted him an increase of 20 marks sterling, or an equivalent in other coin to be taken out of the baillage of Talamon. [? A.D. 1318.]

f. 86. The King to the same. Ponce de Tolosa, his valet, has the custody of the King's castle of Marmande in the Agenois, at the usual fee. Desires the seneschal to pay up the arrears and all future fees, and he will allow it in the account.

f. 86^{b}. King Edward to Master John Guidardi. The King has been promised by the universities of Bordeaux and the seneschalcy of the Landes a subsidy, partly in money and partly in wine, for the expedition of his war with Scotland. For all wine and money received by the said John for his (the King's) use, or by the society of the Bardi of Florence resident in London for the King's use, the King will acquit them.

f. 86^{b}. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. Respecting Peter de Mercadili and Reymond his son, who, without proof, have been charged with being instrumental in the ill usage of Reymund de Castuscio, junior, of Penna, in the Agenois. The seneschal has seized their goods and imprisoned them. They are to be released and their goods restored, on condition that if called upon they shall stand their trial in the matter according to the law of the land.

f. 86b. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux. In order to secure the peace of the duchy, &c. he desires the custody of his castles of Saintes and Blaine to be committed to some fit man (not the seneschal of Saintonge); his castle of Regula to his steward of Gascony; the castle of St. Machaire to some efficient man to be appointed by the seneschal of Gascony; and the castle of Marmande to whoever may be appointed to collect the King's toll (of petagi) there; the castle of Penne to the seneschal of the Agenois, and the castle of Turnon to the King's treasurer of Agenois; and the castle of Seynpuy and Salva terra be committed to some who will take lower wages than those who now hold them; and decides that the castle of Mauleon shall remain in the custody of him who now holds it. Orders him to make out these several commissions under the seal of Gascony.

f. 87. King Edward to the constable of Bordeaux. Whereas Arnald de Rivaly, nephew and heir to Peter Aymericus, deceased, claims a sum of money which was owing to the said Peter for various expenses, as appears by accounts under seal of John de Benstede, keeper of the wardrobe, and other bills of John de Drokenford, Bishop of Bath and Wells, formerly keeper of the wardrobe. Orders that the monies be paid out of the issues of the duchy, and it shall be allowed in the account. [See also f. 92.] [See Rot. Vasc. 9 Edw. II., m. 14.]

f. 87b. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. A., merchant of Bazas, complains that before the war broke out between the King's father and Philip, at that time King of France, he and his father held the office of customing the wines which is called Issak in the city of Bordeaux, which were sent to Bordeaux by water, paying for each hogshead, &c. a certain fixed sum. He states as a grievance that the constable of Bordeaux has at his own pleasure imposed a custom sometimes far greater, and sometimes less than they have been in the habit of paying; this capricious arrangement is greatly to their injury; he petitions the King for a remedy. He commands the seneschal to inquire into the matter and make some satisfactory arrangement. [See f. 95.]

f. 87^{b}. King Edward to the seneschals, constables, bailiffs, &c. in the duchy. Protection for Gerard de Lane, William, Reymund, Arnald, and others, and their men, lands, and possessions.

f. 87^{b}. King Edward to the seneschal of Gascony. Previous to his assignment of the issues of the duchy to the late Pope Clement V. he had assigned the salt-pan (salinam) of Agen to his valet Bertrand Caillau, to hold until he had received out of its issues the sum due to him from the King, but by the assignment to the Pope he lost his office. The King desires him to continue to hold it, until he shall have repaid himself what is due to him. [See Rot. Vasc. 9 Edw. II., m. 21.]

f. 88. King Edward to all, &c. Grant to the members of the university, castle, and vill of Puy lorman [Podio lorman] in the said duchy for ever; commands that the castle, vill, and bastides and appurtenances shall never be granted out of the King's hands, except to his son and heir to the crown of England and duchy of Aquitain, and that they shall remain for ever annexed to the crown of England. [Rot. Vascon. 11 Edw. II., m. 11.]

f. 88. King Edward to the seneschal of Gascony. He is informed by the constable of his castle of Mauleon [Malo Leone], Odo[1] de Milicent [Mille Sanctis], that the seneschal of Landes is guilty of much oppression against those who held the castle, respecting certain appurtenances which have always belonged to the castles. Desires the matter to be inquired into, and the oppression to cease. [See Rot. Vasc. 9 Edw. II., m. 18; Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 10; Rot. Vasc. 12 Edw. II., m. 5 dors; and Rot. Vasc. 16 Edw. II., m. 11.]

[1] Odetto on Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 9.

f. 88. King Edward by his letters patent, states that Matthew de Lutobono, clerk, had been convicted before a competent judge of the rape and violation or deflor-ation of Phenicia de Barreleno, but was afterwards declared to be innocent of the said rape, and rightly absolved by the same judge, as Antony Pessaigne, Knight, formerly seneschal of the duchy, by his letter, duly sealed with the seal of the said duchy, informs the King. The King therefore approves and ratifies his deliverance.

f. 88b. King Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. A complaint has been made by Arnold de Podio Moto that the mayor, jurats, and commonalty of the city of Bordeaux, having granted 500 tuns of wine as a gift for the expedition against the Scots, have compelled Arnald and their other citizens to contribute 112 tuns as their portion, and have also unjustly imprisoned the said Arnald and distrained his goods. The King desires the seneschal to hear the complaint and summon the mayor and Reymund Vitalis (who instigated his act), and satisfy Arnald de Podio Moto for the 112 tuns, and de-fray all costs and damage.

f. 88b. Edward to all, &c. On the 18th April, in the 11th year of his reign, the King, in order to recompense the service rendered by his consuls and university of the town of Port St. Mary, in the seneschalcy of the Agenois, engaged by letters patent that he will never allow the town to go out of his hands except to his firstborn, heir to the crown of England and duchy of Aquitain. He now annexes sundry other jurisdictions, parishes, castles, viz., Basieux [? Baseiuxs], Despieux, St. Bartholomew of Desenbaco, and other castles and parishes of Rufiazesio, to the town, &c., in order that they shall not be assigned to any other vill, or pass to any other hand, except as aforesaid.

f. 89. Edward to William de Casis, Austencius Jor-dan, William Debroil, and Bernard de Sermian, and other his proctors, &c. in the court of France. It is shown that one of his subjects named Peter Vigier de la Russele, late citizen of Bordeaux, was condemned for treason, (John de Ferrariis being seneschal of the duchy[1]) and was executed. His sons, Peter and Elyas Vigier, sue the officials. The King renews his instructions for the defence. [See Rot. Vasc. 11 and 12 Edw. II., m. 11 dors.]

f. 89b. Edward to all, &c. The King had granted on the 15th March in the sixth year of his reign, that William de Tholouse might hold the house of Golstich, which belonged to the Templars, during pleasure, paying 300*l.* Touraine, to the King, or as much as any other person would pay for the same. On the 30th of June following the lands of the Templars, in the said duchy, were ordered to be given to the Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem in the said duchy. The King directs that William shall pay the portion of the 300*l.*, Touraine, due from the 15th March to the 30th June, and shall not be troubled for the remainder.

f. 89b. King Edward to his Seneschal of Gascony, stating that lately at the supplication of G. Sans, Simon de Cavaners, and Reymund de Lymoges, that they (on account of the death of Peter Biger (? Vigier), who was lately condemned before John de Ferrariis, the seneschal of Gascony) were cited to appear on account of the said death in the court of France. The King had directed the seneschal to defend them, but he now learns that they are troubled about the matter and oppressed with expenses; he therefore again commands that they shall be protected and defended. [See f. 89.] [Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 11 dors.]

f. 90. King Edward, to William de Casis, William de Broille, Austencius Jordan, and Bernard de Sermyhan, his proctors, &c. Peter [Vigier], the son, sues the officers in the French court. The King orders the three above-named to be defended as before. [See ff. 89, 89b.] [Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 11 dors.]

f. 90b. Edward to all, &c. Bernard de Cassanea, chief judge [judex major] of Agen, has received, by the advice of Peter de Gualiciano, the King's treasurer of Agenois, a certain sum of money for the pardon of Bernard Feurer and another, who were banished for the spoliation and murder of the Jews. The King confirms the pardons.

f. 90b. Edward to the Seneschal and Treasurer of Agenois. Hears that they have hindered the execution of his letters patent, granting to his clerk, Reymund Durandi, the officium Scribanie Assisagii of his court of Agen,[1] desires them to prevent impediment, and let him hold the office with the profits thereof. [Rot. Vasc. 3 Edw. II., m. 1.]

f. 90b. The same to the same. The citizens of his city of Lectour state that the King's father, by a public proclamation, gave them a grove near the city, to hold at an annual rental, and that the King's bailiffs and the bajulus of Florence disturb them. He commands that they are to retain the lease of the grove if they pay the rent. [See Rot. Vasc. 13 Edw. II., m. 16.]

f. 91. Edward annexes the vill, county, university, and castle of Senhory, in the diocese of Agen, to the crown of England, never to be separated therefrom, except to his first-born, heir to the crown of England and duchy of Aquitain. [See Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 11.]

f. 91b. Edward informs the mayor, jurats, hundred peers, and commonalty of Baion, that he annexes to the crown of England the city of Baion, which is not to be separated therefrom, except as above-mentioned. [? Circa 1317.]

[1] The grant was made to William Durandi, uncle of Reymund Durandi, in the 1st of Edw. II. (See Rot. Vasc. 1 Edw. II., m. 20.)

f. 91b. Edward grants that Dominico de Franc may make a fortalice or strong house in Durmandie in the duchy of Aquitain.

[See also f. 87.] [See Rot. Vasc. 7 Edw. II., m. 14.]

f. 92. Edward to the Constable of Bordeaux. Gerald Daidir claims a debt due to him from the King's late father for services rendered in France and 40*l.* for a horse bought of him. The King desires the matter to be inquired into, and payment made if the debt be just.

f. 92b. Edward, &c. to the Seneschal of Gascony, and Constable of Bordeaux. It is shown by Peter Descorce, of Baion, that the King's late father owed the sum of 650*l.* to certain Gascons for arrears of wages in his war against the King of France. The King desires the matter to be inquired into, and if found correct, the monies are to be paid out of the issues of the duchy. He again desires that the bailiwick and fishery of La Lynde be given up to the said Peter or his deputy, to hold until he is paid the 650*l.*, but if they are already held by any other person by grant then to make an assignment to him of others of the same value.

f. 93. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux. Has heard that Bernard Mandavini, who had been appointed to coin and make money in the duchy of Aquitain, is dead. If security be found by Frank Oddi of Luca and R. de B. they are to have the office on the same terms as others held it.

f. 93. The same to the same. William de Toulouse, seneschal of Perigord, states that by the order of the seneschal of Gascony he has built a castle at Moliers, for the protection of those parts, and prays that his expenses for the same may be paid. If on inquiry his statement be correct, the King desires the said William to pay the money which shall be allowed him on his account. [See f. 83.]

f. 93b. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. Peter Arnaldi, citizen of the town of Aqs, and the heir of Auger Robert, lately deceased, states that debts due to him in his own and his late father's name are detained in the duchy. The King commands the seneschal to assist the said Peter in the recovery of the same.

f. 93b. Edward to all, &c. The constable of Bordeaux, Iterius of Angoulesme, has admitted sundry consuls, corporations, and private persons to the composition which the city of Tholouse and other large towns made on the custom of wines and Yssaco, which were to be received in the King's name at Bordeaux by the constable thereof. He allows them. [See also f. 87b.]

f. 93b. Edward to the Burgomasters, Eschevins, and Consuls of Ghent, in Flanders. Begs them to supply neither arms nor provisions to the Scottish rebels, as he has taken the subjects of the Count of Flanders under his protection.

f. 94. Edward to the Prepositus Umbrarie of the city of Bordeaux. It is stated by John de Vyenna, clerk, that Garzendis, widow of Andrew de Lemmonitis, of that city, and two other persons are indebted to the said John in the sum of 80 pounds in money of Bordeaux. Desires the prepositus to examine the matter and do justice. [See f. 95.]

94. Edward to the Constable of Bordeaux. Edward, the King's late father, owed Peter Darsak, 316*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* for services in the duchy, &c. The constable of Bordeaux had been ordered to pay the money out of the issues of the duchy. The King again orders the debt to be paid.

f. 94b. Edward to all seneschals, &c. in the duchy. Has taken the presidents and canons of the church of St. Caprasius of Agen, with their men, lands, and possessions, under his protection.

f. 94b. Edward to the Mayor and Seneschal of the city of Bordeaux. Sanxius Garsii Ferrand states that he had from the late King Henry (the King's grandfather) by charter the moiety of the port called paagium in the Portus Peregrinorum, at a yearly rental of a pair of gilt spurs for all services, but in consequence of the war between England and France they had been interrupted. Desires them to inspect the charter and grant possession. [Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 11 dors.]

f. 95. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux, and mayor and jurats of the said city, &c. Has granted that Raymund Vitalis, citizen of Bordeaux, may renounce his burgess-ship and be exempt from the jurisdiction of the said seneschal, but may custom his wines at the custom of Bordeaux, and not return to his burgess-ship without the King's leave.

f. 95. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. John Dosnion, Arnald his brother, and other merchants of Bazas, complain that before the war between King Edward and Philip, now King of France, they had customed their wines at 5*s.* 4*d.* the tun, and 2*s.* 4*d.* for the custom called Yssak, in the city of Bordeaux, and that the constable of Bordeaux has imposed upon them sometimes more and sometimes less. Tells him to examine and set the matter right. (See 87b, 93b.)

f. 95. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. Bertrand de Salviaco, Count of Campagne (Campanie), desires to renew the patent whereby he holds the provostship (prepositurum) of Vasatz. The King tells him to consider the matter and state what is most advisable under the seal of Gascony.

and buying wines who are sued by foreigners for trespass. [See also f. 95b.]

f. 95b. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. On the 18th Feb., in the 5th year of his reign, King Edward by his letters patent granted to Thomas de Askebey, clerk, "scribaniam marinand"[1] of the court of the seneschalcy of Agenois, during pleasure, to be exercised by him or his deputy only to be removed by the King's will. On the 16th Dec., in the 9th year of his reign, forgetting the said grant, the King at the suit of other persons had granted it to Bernard Duys clerk, for life, and he, Bernard, had attempted to remove Thomas. The King commands him to restore the office to Thomas.

f. 96. Edward to all, &c. Having for sundry good services granted to William Arnald, of Campaigne, the office of greffier (scribanie) of the seneschalcy of Saintonge, and afterwards being induced by a false representation to grant it to Iterius Borelli, not being aware that Iterius had fought against the King's father in the late war, which Arnald Calculi, seneschal of Saintonge, certifies, the King therefore restores the office to William for life. [Rot. Vasc. 11 Edw. II., m. 17.]

f. 96. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony, and Constable of Bordeaux. By the advice of William Pecche, late seneschal of Gascony, the King had appointed Aymeric Massonerii to be master of works (magister latomus) in the King's castles, &c., at 12*d.* der diem. Orders that the said Aymeric be paid from the commencement of his appointment.

[1] Scribaniam curiæ assisiatus marinand'. Rot. Vasc. 7 Edw. II., m. 6. Thomas de Askeby had the grant made to him 13th Feb., 5 Edw. II. (Rot. Vasc. 5 Edw. II., m. 4, and Rot. Vasc. 6 Edw. II., m. 19.)

f. 96b. Edward to all, &c. He appoints Elyas Audoen, custos of the castle of Puy-Normand [de Podio Normanni] for life, in consideration of the good service done to his late father and to himself.

f. 96b. Edward to all, &c. Antony of Pessaigne, seneschal of the duchy [of Aquitain], has appointed Raymond Durandi to be King's proctor for causes in the court of France. Edward approves and confirms the appointment. [Circa 1317.]

f. 96b. Edward to his clerk, William de Casis. Has sent by the seneschal of Gascony certain information on business touching the King under the seal of J., Bishop of Winton, chancellor. He is to consult J., Bishop of Ely, J., Bishop of Norwich, Aymer de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, and Bartholomew de Badlesmere, should they decline the court of Rome in Paris, and proceed with the matter in the court of the King of France. [Between A.D. 1316 and 1319.]

f. 97. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux. To pay the expenses of the repairs of the castle of Mauleon to O. de L., constable thereof.

f. 97. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. Respecting a controversy between Resplendina, widow of John de Burgo, and William Roberti, son of Raymond Galteri, respecting her inheritance; they submit to the arbitration of Arnald Calculi, then lieutenant of Guy Ferre, late seneschal of the duchy. The award was observed during the life of John, but afterwards, to the injury of Resplendina, William disobeyed it. Edward commands that the award be considered and observed.

f. 97b. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony. Hears there are disputes between the men of Agen and the citizens of Bordeaux, and the former are in fear of molestation. The King orders the seneschal to defend them in Bordeaux, as they are under his (the King's) protection.

f. 97b. The same to the same. (For the good service done to him and his father Edward), he has granted to Peter Descorce during pleasure the office of serjeanty, viz., the execution of the King's seal and counter-seal to contracts in Bordeaux. He now grants it to him for life, and desires the seneschal to support him. [See also f. 82.]

f. 97b. Edward to Master John Guitardi, clerk, respecting the above appointment. Understands that Guitardi claims the office and opposes Peter. Having already granted to Guitardi the office of controller of the castle of Bordeaux, and keeper of the seal and counter-seal for life, the King commands him to cease his opposition to Peter. [Rot. Vasc. 16 Edw. II., m. 13 dors, and m. 12 dors.]

f. 98. Edward to the Seneschal of Gascony and Constable of Bordeaux. Recites the above, and orders them to support Peter Descorce and oppose John Guitardi.

f. 98b. Edward to the same. The consuls of the city of Agen commend Bernard la Spinassa, who for two years has done good service as his bajulus of Agen, and asks that he may hold the office for four years. Desires them to consider the matter, and do as they think fit, without prejudice to the King's assignment to the late Pope Clement Vth, out of the issues of the said duchy.[1]

f. 99. Edward to W., Archbishop of Canterbury, and Walter of Norwich, his treasurer. States that he has given the sub-prior and convent of St. Bartholomew, London, license to choose a prior as there is a vacancy in consequence of the death of John, the late prior. Being abroad he gives power to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and Walter of Norwich, to give assent, accept fealty, and restore temporalities.

f. 99. Edward to Henry de Beaumont, keeper of Durham Castle, in the bishopric of Durham, now vacant in the King's hands. Whereas the King's cousin Louis de Beaumont, treasurer of the church of St. Mary of Sarum, has been appointed by Pope J[ohn XXII.] to be

[1] Explicit Vascon in marg.

Bishop of Durham, and the King has accepted his fealty and restored the temporalities. Henry de Beaumont is commanded to deliver the castle, with all appurtenances, to the said preferred on sight of these letters. (Printed at p. 396 of the present volume.)

f. 99b. Edward to all, &c. Pope J[ohn XXII.] has made William de Melton, Archbishop of York elect, albeit the bull has not been produced, nor has he yet done fealty; the temporalities have been restored, excepting the advowsons of churches and religious houses, till he has done fealty. The King has granted to the preferred all the corn in the granges of the archbishopric and others sown in the lands of the temporalities. [See Rot. Pat. 11 Edw. II., p. 1, m. 23.]

f. 99b. King Edward to Roger de Mortimer de Wygmore, custos and lieutenant of his land in Ireland. The Pope has absolved William late Bishop of Ossory, chancellor of Ireland, from that church, and made him Archbishop of Cassel, as shown by his bull, directed to the King:—Mortimer is appointed to receive fealty of the archbishop and restore the temporalities; and to take from the promoted letters patent under his seal and the seal of his chapter, that this grace shall not work to the prejudice of the King or in disherison. [Circa 1317.] [See Rot. Rom. 11 Edw. II., m. 14.]

99b. Edward to H[enry], Bishop of Lincoln. John Inge, the elder, is named by the King to receive the annual pension from the bishop by reason of his new creation until he is provided with a competent benefice.

f. 100. Edward to the Abbot of C. A similar letter under the like circumstances. He names G.

f. 100. Edward to Brother William de Tothale, prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, in England. Having much regard for the brethren of the Order of St. Mary of Mount Carmel, he (the King) asks Brother William to grant them a chapel in the vill of Shoreham, to enlarge the place of the brethren there, which was given to them by the Lord of Brewosa to build a manse and oratory, provided they pay the same as the Templars paid.

f. 100. Edward to the Abbess and Convent of Romsey. The King reminds them that by reason of their new creation they are bound to pay a pension to one of his clerks until he be provided with a competent benefice. He therefore names Wm. de Derham.

f. 100. Edward to the Abbot and Convent of Reading. William Lenglays, who has done faithful service to the King, is not provided for. Requests them to receive the said William in place of Peter de Alberwik, deceased, and to let him have board and lodging for life as Peter had. Asks a reply.

f. 100b. Edward to the Prior and Convent of Bridlyngton. A similar request for Robert de Norreis, in the place of Gilbert Torel, sompter, deceased.

f. 100b. Edward to the Abbot of Keynesham. A similar demand for William de Bath. The abbot appeared to the King's writ in chancery, made excuse, and departed. f. 100b. Edward to the Abbot and Convent of Sallay. William de Stanes was a faithful servant to the King and also to his late father, and is not provided for. Desires them to allow him food, clothing, and all necessaries during his lifetime. Asks for a reply.

f. 101. Edward to the Sheriff of Bedford. Desires him to distrain all the lands and chattels in his bailiwick of the abbess of Elnestowe, and to answer to the King for the issues, and to cause her to appear before him at the octaves of Hilary next, to answer why she and the convent had neglected to give a pension to a clerk to be named by the King, in consequence of the new creation of an abbess. The King had transferred the right to his sister Elizabeth, Countess of Hereford, and had requested the abbess to give it to her nominee. Summons to her for contempt.

f. 101b. Edward to the Prior and Convent of Bridlington. A corrody for Henry le Stedeman, vice G. de la Sausserie, deceased.

f. 101b. Edward to Ralph de Crophille,[1] escheator on this side north of Trent. William de Neville states that Robert de Wirkeley had granted the manor of Farneley to Margaret de Neville, deceased, for her life, with remainder to him, William, in tail. On the death of Margaret, although William entered by virtue of the fine, yet, on his death, the escheator, by virtue of the King's writ, seized not only his fee simple manor, but also that manor. Desires him to make an inquisition and make a return about it. [A.D. 1318–1320.]

f. 102. Edward to his clerk, Master John de Walewayn, escheator on this side south of Trent. He has taken the lands of Hawyse, widow of John de Ferrariis, into the King's hands, because she had married without the King's licence. As she denies that she is married, the King desires him to take security of her to appear before the King at the next Parliament to answer for the trespass and for the issues if she is married; but if she is not married, to restore her lands, and to give an account of the whole affair to the King at the said Parliament. [Circa A.D. 1314–1324.]

f. 102. Edward to Master William de Clifford, escheator on this side south of Trent. The King has taken the homage of Richard le Playz,[2] nephew and one of the co-heirs of Richard de M[unfichet], lately deceased, who held of the King in chief for the manor of Acleye and the advowson of the church of the said manor, and Benefeud, and ten librates of land in Stanstede, and 80 acres of wood in the park of Stanstede, &c. Desires him to take reasonable relief for the third part of the said inheritance, and to give full seisin thereof to Richard le Playz. [A.D. 1276.]

f. 102. Edward to Richard de Wodehouse, escheator of Ireland. Richard de London leased certain lands in Kiltil and Karinkitil to Philip Ulf, for the lives of the two (Richard and Philip), at the rent of 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* Philip is dead. John de Ufford, late escheator, took them without the King's licence. If the lands thus came into the King's hands they are to be restored to Richard de London.

f. 102. Edward to all, &c. John de Chelmeresford is going into the King's service in the Marches of Wales. Protection for him and all his possessions.

f. 102^{b}. Edward to Richard [?Ralph] de Crophull, escheator this side north of Trent. Concerning certain lands in Folquardby, in co. York, granted by the King to Richard de Insula, whose right is disputed by William de Cateby, on the ground that his father, William de Cateby, obtained and held them of the King's father. The matter is discussed in detail. The King orders the escheator to restore the lands. The end of this is imperfect. [See f. 101^{b}.] [Circa 1318–1320.]

Several leaves are missing.

f. 103. The beginning of this document is imperfect. William, Cardinal Bishop of Palestrina, James, Cardinal Deacon of St. George ad Velum Aureum [S. Giorgio in Velabro], and Raymund, Cardinal Priest of St. Potentiana, Cardinals, to be arbiters. It appears to be concerning a licentiate bachelor proceeding to be master. The dispute arose between the prior and convent of the Friars Preachers in Oxford and the Chancellor and Masters of the University. The parties appeared before the bishops in London; and the Bishops of London, Worcester, and Landaff were chosen to decide. The matter in the end is referred to John, Bishop of Llandaff, Gilbert de Middleton, canon of London, Peter de Kenyngton, and John Everard; they decide on certain statutes of the University; and among others, they determine that the statute shall remain in force which prohibits any student at Oxford to read the Bible, "Biblice seu textu aliter,"[1] before he is a bachelor in theology. The date at the end of the document is Avignon, 17 kal. Nov., in the 2nd year of the pontificate of [Clement V.]. [Circa 1305–1314.]

f. 105. (Pope) Honorius [IV. ?] to the Cardinal Archbishop of Canterbury and his suffragans. Refers to the war in England; desires him to endeavour to restore peace. Dated at the Lateran, 4 kal. May, 5th year of his pontificate.

f. 105b–115b. Here follows a table of Arengœ in 12 parts, being forms of addresses for various persons on different occasions, and are here attributed to Master Peter de Loro.[3]

[1] "Et de aliquo in dicta universitate bibliam biblice seu textu aliter nisi prius in theologia baccalarius extitisset legere."

[2] A similar Bull addressed to the Archbishops of Canterbury and York and the Bishops of Bath and Wells, but otherwise almost identical with this, is printed in the Fœdera, vol. i. p. 293, from the original in the Public Record Office.

[3] f. 115b. Expliciunt Arengæ compositæ a Magistro Petro de Loro. After a long and exhaustive search I have not been able to discover anything relating to Peter de Loro. I am therefore induced to believe that the name has been misread by the scribe of Bury's Letter Book. Several treatises have been composed on the subject of Arengæ, but no such name as Peter de Loro is alluded to among the authors

Arenga qua uti possunt ambassatores alicujus civitatis coram apostolica sanctitate.

Arenga qua uti posset quis coram aliquo Cardinali.

Arenga qua uti posset quis coram aliquo Patriarcha.

Arenga qua uti posset quis coram Archiepiscopi dignitatem habentibus.

Arenga qua uti posset quis coram Episcopalem dignitatem habente.

After the table follow the forms of the addresses.

De arengis quæ fieri possunt in præsentia Summi Pontificis, Cardinalium et aliorum clericorum.

Arenga qua uti possunt ambassatores alicujus civitatis coram apostolica sanctitate.

who have written on that subject. For reasons which satisfy myself, but would be difficult to explain in a few words, I am of opinion that the name should be Master Petrus de Vineis, chancellor to the Emperor Frederic II., to whom a work of a similar nature, though of a different title, is attributed. This treatise is in the library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge (No. cccliii.), and is there described as the DICTAMINA of Peter de Vineis; in another MS. in the library of the Dean and Chapter of Durham (C. iv. 24) is a treatise ascribed to Peter de Vineis and others called "Forma dictandi." No such work, however, is imputed to that author by Ludwig Rockinger in his Briefsteller und formelbücher des eilften bis vierzehnten Jahrhunderts. The analogy between the arengæ and dictamina shows clearly that both words are mutually interchangeable. The first is thus defined in the MS. "Arenga est præambula benivolenciæ captacio per verba primæ secundæ ac tertiæ personæ attentes reddens et alliciens auditores. Unde dicitur arenga. Et dicitur arenga ab ares quod est virtus quia virtuosum est cuilibet peronato reddere auditores benivolos et attentos." The second as ars dictatoria Prelatis, principibus, et quibuslibet aliis cujuscumque conditionis optima dinoscitur;" and again as "Formulæ epistolarum variæ de rebus tam publicis quam aliis." It would appear that collections of Letters and forms of Letters were compiled by various persons for the guidance of the Chanceries of Italy and France. M. Léopold Delisle has written a very learned and interesting account of the Dictamina of Bérard de Naples, who was notary of Popes Urban IV., Clement IV., and Gregory X.

f. 224. The King to J., Archbishop of Canterbury. A subsidy has been granted by the clergy against the rebels

[1] During the suspension of the Archbishop of Canterbury, the church of Recolvre belonging to the see of Canterbury became vacant, and King Edward presented his physician, Nicholas de Tyngewik (elsewhere called Dyngewick), to the vacant benefice (Pat. 33 Edw. I., m. 9.). Pope Clement afterwards being informed thereof was much displeased, as he considered the seizure of the archbishop's temporalities contrary to canonical sanction, whereupon the King, though he asserted that by the law and prerogative of his crown, and the custom of the realm, he might justly seize the temporalities, and take their profits to his own use, yet he was contented, notwithstanding his right, out of his special favour and affection to the Pope, that the profits of the temporalities thus seized into his hands should become the Pope's, and be delivered up to those whom the Pope should send to receive them (Rot. Rom. 34 Edw. I., m. 8 and 5).

The King, however, fearing that the Pope would dispossess his physician of the benefice, wrote the letter entered in Bishop Bury's book, which is also to be found on the Roman Roll, 34 Edw. I., m. 4. The King had previously granted this benefice to Simon de Favresham (Rot. Claus., 34 Edw. I., m. 16.), and upon his resigning it he presented his said physician. The Pope, however, would not abandon his supposed right, on the ground that he had granted it by his provision to another. (See Rot. Rom. 34 & 35 Edw. I., m. 5.)

He desires the release of the Prince of Salerno and the sons of Ferdinand, King of Castile, and Blanche his wife. He asks a truce to Michaelmas 1287; in the meantime, peace with the Pope's assent might be made. In order more surely to affect this before he left England, he sent special messengers to Don Alfonso, son of Peter, formerly King of Arragon. He now sends to the Pope Hamo de Solens, knight, and Radulph de Lalemaunt as solemn nuncios.[1] [A.D. 1286.] [See f. 68.]

Circa 1300.]

Has received Robert, dean of York, and John called Clarel, the King's messengers, with letters asking that the King's brother, Edmund, Count of Champagne and Brie, may be paid the tenth granted in subsidy to the Holy Land. Regrets that the King, who has seen the tribulation of the Holy Land, will not go there; considering his miraculous escape from assassination in the Holy Land, thinks he ought to go there. [Circa 1283.] (This Bull is enrolled on Rot. Claus., 11 Edw. I., m. 7 in dorso. It is there dated "apud Urbem Veterem vi. Idus "Januarii Pontificatus nostri anno secundo.")

f. 227b. Edward, King of England, to Pope A[drian V.]. Condemning the hostile proceedings of the late Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester. Llewellyn, Prince of Wales, "qui est unus de majoribus inter magnates regni," united with the earl in opposition to Henry, the King's father and himself, he is now stirring. The King since his coronation has many times demanded his fealty and homage, and proceeded as far as the borders of Wales to receive it. Llewellyn, however, refuses, believing that his marriage with Alianor, the Earl's daughter, will strengthen his cause. Gives an account of the capture of Alianor and Aymeric de Montfort, her brother, and of the King's conversation with the Archbishop of Canterbury, who asks for their release. Demands security that Guy de Montfort and other captives in the Pope's prison shall not attempt anything against him. If they be released he says the relatives of the slain will murmur. Asks the Pope to advise him in the matter. [See also f. 16b.] [Circa 1278.]

f. 231. Pope Martin (IV.) to the King. States that Nicholas (III.), his predecessor, heard of the capture of Almeric de Montfort, the Pope's chaplain, while escorting his sister Alianor to her husband [Llewellyn], Prince of Wales. The Pope sent his chaplain Master Raymund Angerii, dean of Avis [Avicieñ], to negociate for the liberation of Almeric, who is to give security not to return to England or its dependencies without the Pope's license; if he break his word he is to be excommunicated. The Pope died before the business was accomplished, but Pope Martin has taken up the matter, and added a clause to the security. Asks the King to attend to the matter. [? Circa 1281.]

f. 232. (Pope) Boniface (VIII.) to the King of Scotland. On the death of William Fraser, Bishop of St. Andrew's, he summoned all persons interested to choose another bishop. Acting as arbitrator he desires Edward to put into the Pope's hands all the lands, vassals, goods held by the King of France, as well as by Edward's self before the war, and to await the award and to deliver them to Raynald, Bishop of Vienne. Says he will send a similar letter to the King of France. [A.D. 1299.] [See Fœd., vol. i. p. 904.]

f. 236. (Pope) Boniface [VIII.] to King Edward. Desires peace between France and England. The King of England's messengers have brought letters to the Pope, who had authorised the late Arnald, Bishop of Tholouse, to receive the lands in Gascony held conjointly by the Kings of England and France, and deliver them to the Duke of Burgundy and the Earls of Brittany and St. Pol, to hold until the Pope's further order, one being related and the other a friend to the King. Thinks the arrangement will be gratifying. Asks the King to accord. Hears it is agreed that the King shall return what he now has.[1] [A.D. 1299.]

f. 237. (Pope) Boniface (VIII.) to Edward, King of England. Nicholas IV. granted the Irish tithes for the relief of the Holy Land. The King's justices and officers in Ireland are said to have seized their goods, so that the merchants cannot pay the tithes. Asks the

APPENDIX TO PREFACE.

The following Tables of Abbreviations[1] contain many more examples than will be found in the first volume of the "Rotuli Litterarum Clausarum," published in the year 1833. Imperfect as those Tables were they have been several times reprinted by other persons, without any enlargement; thus proving their general utility by supplying a requirement that was experienced by all persons desirous of reading Records.

The student, however, must not expect to find in these tables examples of all the abbreviations scattered about in the numerous MSS. which are now extant, extending from the sixth to the fourteenth century, because it is next to impossible to denote in type all the minutiæ of the abbrevations in some MSS. I have only introduced those with which I am familiar; but there are many records where almost every word is contracted, and if all had been noticed the tables would have been quadrupled in extent, inasmuch as the same word is repeated in various ways. Several ancient examples, however, that are not of common occurrence have been inserted, because they are found in early charters, chronicles, and other early MSS. relating to England before the end of the tenth century.

I have also introduced from the work of M. Chassant some of the principal abbreviations occurring in Roman inscriptions and epitaphs, and also some few of the legends on ancient coins connected with England.

[1] They are not limited to those occurring in the documents printed in this volume.

I have endeavoured to arrange the abbreviations dictionary-wise, but I have not been able fully to carry out that plan, many words being contracted in five or six different ways, and it was found convenient occasionally to place them under one of such words. They are, however, in sufficient alphabetical order to be easily traced or recognised.

The usual way of shortening words was to omit one or more letters in each word; to substitute in their stead certain symbols and superior letters.

The abbreviations commonly used by scribes were a small right line (—) placed horizontally over a vowel in the middle of a word; this denotes the omission of one letter as in vēdāt (vendant); when it occurs at the end of a word, as in Londoñ (Londoniæ), it denotes the omission of more than one letter; when it is found at the end of a word, and not over a letter, it shows the writing to be of very great antiquity. A curve approaching the form of the Greek circumflex (~) also placed horizontally over a letter or letters, either in the middle or at the end of a word, signifies the omission of more than one letter, but the number of letters wanted is to be ascertained by the reader, as in aĩa (anima), alr (aliter), alia (animalia), Wintoñ (Wintonia), nob̃ (nobis), mand (mandatum).

During the thirteenth century abbreviations were so numerous as to amount to a positive inconvenience, yet no step was taken in England to limit their use. In France, however, Philippe le Bel banished them in the year 1304 from the minutes of notaries, more especially those which subjected their notes to be falsified or misunderstood.

Several other symbols have positive and defined significations when they occur above the line, as ꝰ; this usually stands for er or re, and occasionally ir, and follows the letter which precedes the omission as the sense requires, thus t̃ra for terra, p̃dictus for predictus, serṽe, servire. For the word et, the character ⁊ is used, and when the circumflex (~) is placed over the symbol thus t̃, it stands for etiam; but in very early MSS. et is denoted by a figure somewhat resembling the numeral 7; and autem is expressed thus .

The dipthong was not generally used, but sometimes at the end of a word it is represented in very early documents by a character similar to the French ç; thus terrę for terræ.

The character represented in type by the figure ꝯ is sometimes called the c cursive or the c reversed. When it occurs at the beginning of a word it signifies con or com, as ꝯvicto for convicto, ꝯtª for contra, ꝯmitto for committo; when placed in the middle or at the end of a word a little out of the line it signifies us, as Augꝯti for Augusti, Deꝯ, Deus, rebꝯ, rebus, ejꝯ, ejus. It also frequently stands for ost or os, as pꝯ, post, pꝯquam, postquam, nꝯ, nos, vꝯ vos.

The figure ʒ at the end of a word also signifies us, as omnibʒ for omnibus, and likewise et, as debʒ for debet. Sometimes it represents the final letters am and em, animʒ for animam, requiʒ for requiem.

The figure ꝛ represents generally the letters rum, sometimes ras, res, ris, ram, as eoꝛ for eorum, libꝛ for libras or libris, Windesoꝛ for Windesores, Alienoꝛ for Alienoram, antecessoꝛ, antecessoris or antecessorum.

The sign somewhat resembling the figure ꝰ, or an ʳ superior signifies ur or tur; it is placed a little above the line either in the middle or at the end of a word, as futʳi for futuri, accitʳ for accipitur.

The letter s placed above the line at the end of a word represents is or us, as beatˢ for beatus, oˢ for omnis.

When a point or full stop is placed immediately after a letter, or at the end of an unfinished word, it denotes the omission of more than one letter, as T. for Teste, di. et fi., dilectus et fidelis. Sometimes, instead of the full stop, a sign is employed, as q$_{\text{ꝫ}}$ for quæ; it frequently accompanies the letter q, as quoq$_{\text{ꝫ}}$ for quoque.

Two points, thus (˙˙), or (″), or ˙/. serve as marks of transposition, as ″ Magnus ″ Albertus for Albertus Magnus.

The word est is abridged either by a horizontal line, or by the Greek circumflex accent between two points thus ÷ ⁖, also when a point follows immediately after e. it signifies est.

A point placed under a letter shows that such letter is redundant, and when one or more points are placed under a letter or word they indicate that a deletion is intended.

Luctuosa litera quærens consilium, remissionem et favorem de regis liberatione ab hostibus.

Venerabili[2] in Christo fratri et amico carissimo, Hugoni, Dei gratia, Dunelmensi episcopo, Walterus eadem gratia Rothomagensis archiepiscopus, salutem in vero Salutari. Super adventu regio rumoribus variis ventilatis, [tandem,[3]] quia veritas latere non potuit, nobis omnia sunt aperta: verum in adversis et prosperis esse unanimes[4] nos oportet; Dei enim non possumus avertere voluntatem, et cum ejus judicia sint occulta, eventus rerum fortuitos ejus misericordiæ et providentiæ commendamus. In mœrore animi nostri cogimur profiteri, de domino nostro rege aliter accidisse quam ejus regno et universis suis fidelibus expediret; et si ejus merita plenius intuemur, is casus ejus operibus nullatenus deberetur.[5] Qui enim ad Dei gloriam patrimonium universum exhausit [et][6] bellorum fortunæ suorum et suum sanguinem indifferenter commisit, in omnibus viis suis protectionem Dei merebatur. Verum adversitas, quæ bonis votis objicitur, probatio virtutis est, non indicium[7] reprobationis. Et quid plura? loqui compellimur, quod vellemus.[8] Imperatoris Alemannorum literarum transcriptum vobis ducimus transtræ dominationi duximus perferendum quod dominus noster rex, regina consors sua, eorum liberi, in harum scriptione sub grata prosperitate sani et incolumes, Deo auspice, habebantur. Rex et regina Wyntoniæ moram trahunt, tempus indies expectantes quo regina liberetur, in proximo paritura. Scotorum gens misera contra regem Angliæ jam cervicem erexit, dominum Robertum de Bruys, comitem de Carrik, in regem sibi perficiens, qui per suos complices in regem coronatus existit, in confusionem et destructionem tam ipsius utinam quam suorum. Dominus noster rex cum exercitu suo pleno in quindena Natalis beati Johannis Baptistæ erit apud Karliolum et Berewyk ad destruendum Scotos et conterendum cornua prædictorum. Inter cætera vestræ dominationis providentiæ duximus reservandum quod dominus rex in festo Pentecostes dominum Edwardum filium suum primogenitum, principem Walliæ, cingulo induet militari, cum aliis qui ob regem et filii sui reverentiam sub tanta multitudine miltiiæ se conferent, quod a multis retro temporibus tanta ad militiam se non contulit multitudo. Verum quia ob certas causas vestrum conspicimus in hac parte versari honorem, vestræ providentiæ duximus consulendum, nihilominus vos rogantes ut hujusmodi insigniis vestram faciendi præsentiam opportunitatem quærere studeatis, quod, ut speramus, vestri profectus et honoris cedet pro tempore incrementum.[1] A.D. 1306.

Bellum regni substantiam universaliter exhausit.

De statu regis et reginæ.

Papæ rex, devota pedum oscula beatorum. Dolenter audivimus, et immensa cordis amaritudine vestræ clementiæ cogimur nunciare, qualiter, venerabiles patres, dominus Gaucelinus titulo Sanctorum Marcelini et Petri presbyter, et dominus Lucas Sanctæ Mariæ in Via Lata diaconus, cardinales, nuper a civitate Eborum versus civitatem Dunelmensem, ut commissa eis a vestra sanctitate explerent negotia, secedentes, ac volentes solempnis consecrationis venerabilis patris Lodewyci Dunelmensis electi, quæ die Dominica in festo Translationis Sancti Cuthberti, videlicet quarto die instantis mensis Septembris, disposita fuerat[2] celebrari, ad instantem requisitionem ipsius electi et suorum interesse, habentesque in comitatu suo eundem electum, et nobilem virum dominum Henricum de Bello Monte, fratrem suum, ac plures alios nobiles et magnates die Jovis præcedente, videlicet, primo die dicti mensis, obvios habuerunt quosdam robbatores, qui a quadam silva, quasi hora prima illius diei, distante a villa de Derlington' per sex vel septem leucas, egredientes in magna multitudine more guerrino in dictos patres, et cæteros existentes in eorum comitatu, gravem et enormem fecerunt insultum, ipsosque tandem hostiliter ceperunt, ac bonis suis omnibus, quæ apprehendere poterant, spoliarunt. Et, post hoc, eosdem cardinales, cum familiis suis, sic spoliatos et nudos, absque corporum læsione, divina eos clementia protegente, permiserunt abire; qui se ad dictam civitatem Dunolmensem transtulerunt; dicto quoque electo, et fratre suo, cum suis, in ipsorum robbatorum captivitate retentis. Cum autem rumor, de perpetratione tam horribilis et inauditi sceleris, ad nos, qui tunc in loco eramus distanti pro disponendis negotiis guerram nostram Scotiæ tangentibus, pervenisset, nostrum graviter percellens auditum, acrius viscera saucians, et dolore præcordia dire pungens, cæteris prætermissis, accessimus ad civitatem Eborum, et ibidem ad nos diversos proceres et magnates convocari disposuimus ex hac causa; quorum consilio, ad vindicandum tantas, et tam enormes, Deo et sanctæ ecclesiæ illatas injurias, sic festinabimus debitæ ultionis rigorem exercere, quod, pœnæ formidine, cohibebuntur deinceps manus temerariæ a commissione tantorum facinorum, quos Dei reverentia non cohercet. Et nihilominus, pro indempnitate dictorum patrum et suorum, ut eis ablata restituantur, faciemus quicquid poterimus, ita quod, concedente Domino, conservabuntur indempnes. De nominibus etiam dictorum robbatorum, et suorum complicum, et fautorum inquiri cum exacta diligencia faciemus, et vobis eadem nomina non tardabimus destinare, ut contra eos, si libeat, severitatem canonum, contra hujusmodi sacrilegos editorum, excerceri, ad ipsorum confusionem perpetuam, jubeatis. Patri suo et domino magistro et amico suus filius, servus, discipulus, et proximus, honorem, reverentiam, gaudium, et salutem. Mirandi causa cordi meo ingeritur non immerito, quod epistolam, quam domino Willelmo et mihi pro amico vestro ad ordinem presbyteratus promovendo scripsistis, per me reprehendi, cum omnino fuerit irreprehensibile, timuistis. Fateor enim, et credo, quod si Salomonis sapientia, Tullii eloquentia, Virgilii prudentia, cuiquam fuisset possibile fœcundari, vel etiam Aristotelis argumentosis phantasmatibus[1] imbui desuper datum esset, in apice vel iota nullam prorsus reprehensionis maculam in vestra epistola inveniret, sed omnia in eo contenta adeo sagaci studio comperta sunt, tamque studioso succinctæ narrationis stilo, licet grandiloquo, connexa, immo quasi digito Dei compacta, quæ singulis inspectoribus emanasse videntur ab ore divino potius quam humano.

Unde cum, secundum Philosophum, docilem reddat ars hominem, usum[2] tamen promptum, in vobis procul dubio nihil deficit præter usus; quem si, mediante studio, conaremini adipisci, non diffido, quin infra tempus modicum Johannem de Bononia, Petrum Blesensem, sed et utique illum scribam clarissimum Petrum de Vineis solemniter præiretis. Dictum etiam amicum pro quo scripsistis, dominus Willelmus et ego vobis mittimus expeditum, parati pro vobis multa plura facere, quibus nostra modicitas esse poterit opportuna. In Christo fideliter valeatis.

APPENDIX.

APPENDIX.

After the text, preface, and index of this volume were printed, the materials occurring at pp. 487–531, were discovered by my friend Mr. Charles T. Martin, in a MS. in the British Museum;[1] as they supply some of the missing portions of Kellawe's Register, I have deemed it expedient to insert them here by way of Appendix.

The manuscript from which they are taken, at one time belonged to John Wessyngton, prior of Durham, as appears by the memorandum supposed to be in his own handwriting, "Liber dñi Joħis Wesshyngton prioris "Dunelm̃."

Wessington was at first a monk of Durham, and became prior of that celebrated house in the year 1416. After holding the office for nearly 30 years, with much credit to himself, and to the full satisfaction of his brethren, he died in 1446.

He was one of the few priors of Durham who have been distinguished for literary pursuits; he appears to have employed all his time not devoted to his religious and monastic duties to historical investigations, and to have made several compilations for the defence of his monastery—a record of which is preserved in a Roll at Durham.[2] As this codex is not mentioned in the list, it assist him in his researches, for he evidently meditated a history of his house. The volume contains many things relating to Durham, intermingled with a heterogeneous collection of other matters.

There is another proof that the compilation was not made by him, for it does not occur in the volume in the Chapter Library at Durham, mentioned by Rud., p. 172, (B. III. 30), the greater portion of which is in Wessington's writing.

The MS. formerly belonged, it is said, to William Whittingham,[1] dean of Durham. It does not, however, appear how he obtained possession of it, but, in all probability, he removed it from the cathedral into his own library whilst he was the dean, and treated it as his own property, in much the same way as he did the other treasures of the cathedral; and at his death it may have been sold by his widow, who did not scruple to appro-

[1] Who was installed as dean of Durham in October 1563, and died in June 1579. Dean Whittingham was the great iconoclast of Durham. Having no respect for the memory of his predecessors, he destroyed all the tombstones of the priors who were buried in the cemetery-garth. His dislike to ancient monuments was so great, that he defaced all such stones as had any pictures of brass or other imagery wrought upon them, and the rest he took away, and employed them for his own use in making a wash-house to accommodate his laundresses. He likewise removed into his kitchen from the north and south doors, the marble holy-water stones, curiously wrought, and employed them for steeping his beef and salt fish therein, and afterwards they were used by his servants for washing their pots and cups in before they served them at table.

priate to her own use much of the ecclesiastical property of Durham.[1]

Considering the appropriating propensities in husband and wife, there can scarcely be a doubt how the MS. was removed from its place in the library of the dean and chapter, and eventually found its way into the Lansdown Collection.

CALENDARS OF STATE PAPERS, &c.

[Imperial 8vo., cloth. Price 15*s.* each Volume or Part.]

As far back as the year 1800, a Committee of the House of Commons recommended that Indexes and Calendars should be made to the Public Records, and thirty-six years afterwards another Committee of the House of Commons reiterated that recommendation in more forcible words; but it was not until the incorporation of the State Paper Office with the Public Record Office that the Master of the Rolls found himself in a position to take the necessary steps for carrying out the wishes of the House of Commons.

On 7 December 1855, he stated to the Lords of the Treasury that although "the Records, State Papers, and Documents in his charge constitute the most "complete and perfect series of their kind in the civilized world," and although "they are of the greatest value in a historical and constitutional "point of view, yet they are comparatively useless to the public, from the "want of proper Calendars and Indexes."

Acting upon the recommendations of the Committees of the House of Commons above referred to, he suggested to the Lords of the Treasury that to effect the object he had in view it would be necessary for him to employ a few Persons fully qualified to perform the work which he contemplated.

Their Lordships assented to the necessity of having Calendars prepared and printed, and empowered the Master of the Rolls to take such steps as might be necessary for this purpose.

The Supplement contains new information relating to the private life of Queen Katharine of England ; and to the projected marriage of Henry VII. with Queen Juana, widow of King Philip of Castile, and mother of the Emperor Charles V.

THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

[ROYAL 8vo. half-bound. Price 10*s.* each Volume or Part.]

On 25 July 1822, the House of Commons presented an address to the Crown, stating that the editions of the works of our ancient historians were inconvenient and defective; that many of their writings still remained in manuscript, and, in some cases, in a single copy only. They added, "that an "uniform and convenient edition of the whole, published under His Majesty's "royal sanction, would be an undertaking honourable to His Majesty's reign, "and conducive to the advancement of historical and constitutional know- "ledge; that the House therefore humbly besought His Majesty, that He "would be graciously pleased to give such directions as His Majesty, in His "wisdom, might think fit, for the publication of a complete edition of the "ancient historians of this realm, and assured His Majesty that whatever "expense might be necessary for this purpose would be made good."

The Master of the Rolls, being very desirous that effect should be given to the resolution of the House of Commons, submitted to Her Majesty's Treasury in 1857 a plan for the publication of the ancient chronicles and memorials of the United Kingdom, and it was adopted accordingly. In selecting these works, it was considered right, in the first instance, to give preference to those of which the manuscripts were unique, or the materials of which would help to fill up blanks in English history for which no satisfactory and authentic information hitherto existed in any accessible form. One great object the Master of the Rolls had in view was to form a corpus historicum within reasonable limits, and which should be as complete as possible. In a subject of so vast a range, it was important that the historical student should be able to select such volumes as conformed with his own peculiar tastes and studies, and not be put to the expense of purchasing the whole collection; an inconvenience inseparable from any other plan than that which has been in this instance adopted.

Of the Chronicles and Memorials, the following volumes have been published. They embrace the period from the earliest time of British history down to the end of the reign of Henry VII.

1. The Chronicle of England, by John Capgrave. Edited by the Rev. F. C. Hingeston, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1858.

   Capgrave was prior of Lynn, in Norfolk, and provincial of the order of the Friars Hermits of England shortly before the year 1464. His Chronicle extends from the creation of the world to the year 1417. As a record of the language spoken in Norfolk (being written in English), it is of considerable value.

2. Chronicon Monasterii de Abingdon. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. Joseph Stevenson, M.A., of University College, Durham, and Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1858.

   This Chronicle traces the history of the great Benedictine monastery of Abingdon in Berkshire, from its foundation by King Ina of Wessex, to the reign of Richard I., shortly after which period the present narrative was drawn up by an inmate of the establishment. The author had access to the title-deeds of the house; and incorporates into his history various charters of the Saxon kings, of great importance as illustrating not only the history of the locality but that of the kingdom. The work is printed for the first time.

3. Lives of Edward the Confessor. I.—La Estoire de Seint Aedward le Rei. II.—Vita Beati Edvardi Regis et Confessoris. III.—Vita Æduuardi Regis qui apud Westmonasterium requiescit. Edited by Henry Richards Luard, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1858.

   The first is a poem in Norman French, containing 4,686 lines, addressed to Alianor, Queen of Henry III., and probably written in the year 1245, on the occasion of the restoration of the church of Westminster. Nothing is known of the author. The second is an anonymous poem, containing 536 lines, written between the years 1440 and 1450, by command of Henry VI., to whom it is dedicated. It does not throw any new light on the reign of Edward the Confessor, but is valuable as a specimen of the Latin poetry of the time. The third, also by an anonymous author, was apparently written for Queen Edith, between the years 1066 and 1074, during the pressure of the suffering brought on the Saxons by the Norman conquest. It notices many facts not found in other writers, and some which differ considerably from the usual accounts.

4. Monumenta Franciscana; scilicet, I.—Thomas de Eccleston de Adventu Fratrum Minorum in Angliam. II.—Adæ de Marisco Epistolæ. III.—Registrum Fratrum Minorum Londoniæ. Edited by J. S. Brewer, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. 1858.

   This volume contains original materials for the history of the settlement of the order of Saint Francis in England, the letters of Adam de Marisco, and other papers connected with the foundation and diffusion of this great body. It has been the aim of the editor to collect whatever historical information could be found in this country, towards illustrating a period of the national history for which only scanty materials exist. None of these have been before printed.

5. Fasciculi Zizaniorum Magistri Johannis Wyclif cum Tritico. Ascribed to Thomas Netter, of Walden, Provincial of the Carmelite Order in England, and Confessor to King Henry the Fifth. Edited by the Rev. W. W. Shirley, M.A., Tutor and late Fellow of Wadham College, Oxford. 1858.

   This work derives its principal value from being the only contemporaneous account of the rise of the Lollards. When written, the disputes of the school-men had been extended to the field of theology, and they appear both in the writings of Wycliff and in those of his adversaries. Wycliff's little bundles of tares are not less metaphysical than theological, and the conflict between Nominalists and Realists rages side by side with the conflict between the different interpreters of Scripture. The work gives a good idea of the controversies at the end of the 14th and the beginning of the 15th centuries.

6. The Buik of the Croniclis of Scotland ; or, A Metrical Version of the History of Hector Boece ; by William Stewart. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by W. B. Turnbull, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law. 1858.

This is a metrical translation of a Latin Prose Chronicle, and was written in the first half of the 16th century. The narrative begins with the earliest legends, and ends with the death of James I. of Scotland, and the "evil ending of the traitors that slew him." Strict accuracy of statement is not to be looked for in such a work as this ; but the stories of the colonization of Spain, Ireland, and Scotland are interesting if not true ; and the chronicle is valuable as a reflection of the manners, sentiments, and character of the age in which it was composed. The peculiarities of the Scottish dialect are well illustrated in this metrical version, and the student of language will find ample materials for comparison with the English dialects of the same period, and with modern lowland Scotch.

7. Johannis Capgrave Liber de Illustribus Henricis. Edited by the Rev. F. C. Hingeston, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1858.

This work is dedicated to Henry VI. of England, who appears to have been, in the author's estimation, the greatest of all the Henries. It is divided into three distinct parts, each having its own separate dedication. The first part relates only to the history of the Empire, and extends from the election of Henry I., the Fowler, to the end of the reign of the Emperor Henry VI. The second part is devoted to English history, and extends from the accession of Henry I. in the year 1100, to the year 1446, which was the twenty-fourth year of the reign of King Henry VI. The third part contains the lives of illustrious men who have borne the name of Henry in various parts of the world.

Capgrave was born in 1393, in the reign of Richard II., and lived during the Wars of the Roses, for the history of which period his work is of some value.

8. Historia Monasterii S. Augustini Cantuariensis, by Thomas of Elmham, formerly Monk and Treasurer of that Foundation. Edited by Charles Hardwick, M.A., Fellow of St. Catharine's Hall, and Christian Advocate in the University of Cambridge. 1858.

This history extends from the arrival of St. Augustine in Kent until 1191. Prefixed is a chronology as far as 1418, which shows in outline what was to have been the character of the work when completed. The only copy known is in the possession of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. The author was connected with Norfolk, and most probably with Elmham, whence he derived his name.

9. Eulogium (Historiarum sive Temporis) : Chronicon ab Orbe condito usque ad Annum Domini 1366 ; a Monacho quodam Malmesbiriensi exaratum. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by F. S. Haydon, Esq., B.A. 1858–1863.

This is a Latin Chronicle extending from the Creation to the latter part of the reign of Edward III., and written by a monk of the Abbey of Malmesbury, in Wiltshire, about the year 1367. A continuation, carrying the history of England down to the year 1413, was added in the former half of the fifteenth century by an author whose name is not known. The original Chronicle is divided into five books, and contains a history of the world generally, but more especially of England to the year 1366. The continuation extends the history down to the coronation of Henry V. The Eulogium itself is chiefly valuable as containing a history, by a contemporary, of the period between 1356 and 1366. The notices of events appear to have been written very soon after their occurrence. Among other interesting matter, the Chronicle contains a diary of the Poitiers campaign, evidently furnished by some person who accompanied the army of the Black Prince. The continuation of the Chronicle is also the work of a contemporary, and gives a very interesting account of the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. It is believed to be the earliest authority for the statement that the latter monarch died in the Jerusalem Chamber at Westminster.

10. Memorials of Henry the Seventh: Bernardi Andreæ Tholosatis Vita Regis Henrici Septimi; necnon alia quædam ad eundem Regem spectantia. Edited by James Gairdner, Esq. 1858.

The contents of this volume are—(1) a life of Henry VII., by his poet laureate and historiographer, Bernard André, of Toulouse, with some compositions in verse, of which he is supposed to have been the author; (2) the journals of Roger Machado during certain embassies on which he was sent by Henry VII. to Spain and Brittany, the first of which had reference to the marriage of the King's son, Arthur, with Catharine of Arragon; (3) two curious reports by envoys sent to Spain in the year 1505 touching the succession to the Crown of Castile, and a project of marriage between Henry VII. and the Queen of Naples; and (4) an account of Philip of Castile's reception in England in 1506. Other documents of interest in connexion with the period are given in an appendix.

11. Memorials of Henry the Fifth. I.—Vita Henrici Quinti, Roberto Redmanno auctore. II.—Versus Rhythmici in laudem Regis Henrici Quinti. III.—Elmhami Liber Metricus de Henrico V. Edited by Charles A. Cole, Esq. 1858.

This volume contains three treatises which more or less illustrate the history of the reign of Henry V., viz.: A Life by Robert Redman; a Metrical Chronicle by Thomas Elmham, prior of Lenton, a contemporary author; Versus Rhythmici, written apparently by a monk of Westminster Abbey, who was also a contemporary of Henry V. These works are printed for the first time.

12. Munimenta Gildhallæ Londoniensis; Liber Albus, Liber Custumarum, et Liber Horn, in archivis Gildhallæ asservati. Vol. I., Liber Albus. Vol. II. (in Two Parts), Liber Custumarum. Vol. III., Translation of the Anglo-Norman Passages in Liber Albus, Glossaries, Appendices, and Index. Edited by Henry Thomas Riley, Esq., M.A., Barrister-at-Law. 1859–1862.

The manuscript of the Liber Albus, compiled by John Carpenter, Common Clerk of the City of London in the year 1419, a large folio volume, is preserved in the Record Room of the City of London. It gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of that City in the twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth, and early part of the fifteenth centuries.

The Liber Custumarum was compiled probably by various hands in the early part of the fourteenth century during the reign of Edward II. The manuscript, a folio volume, is also preserved in the Record Room of the City of London, though some portion in its original state, borrowed from the City in the reign of Queen Elizabeth and never returned, forms part of the Cottonian MS. Claudius D. II. in the British Museum. It also gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of the City of London in the twelfth, thirteenth, and early part of the fourteenth centuries.

13. Chronica Johannis de Oxenedes. Edited by Sir Henry Ellis, K.H. 1859.

Although this Chronicle tells of the arrival of Hengist and Horsa in England in the year 449, yet it substantially begins with the reign of King Alfred, and comes down to the year 1292, where it ends abruptly. The history is particularly valuable for notices of events in the eastern portions of the kingdom, which are not to be elsewhere obtained, and some curious facts are mentioned relative to the floods in that part of England, which are confirmed in the Friesland Chronicle of Anthony Heinrich, pastor of the Island of Mohr.

14. A Collection of Political Poems and Songs relating to English History, from the Accession of Edward III. to the Reign of Henry VIII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by Thomas Wright, Esq., M.A. 1859–1861.

These Poems are perhaps the most interesting of all the historical writings of the period, though they cannot be relied on for accuracy of statement. They are various in character; some are upon religious subjects, some may be called satires, and some give no more than a court scandal; but as a whole they present a very fair picture of society, and of the relations of the different classes to one another. The period comprised is in itself interesting, and brings us, through the decline of the feudal system, to the beginning of our modern history. The songs in old English are of considerable value to the philologist.

15. The "Opus Tertium," "Opus Minus," &c., of Roger Bacon. Edited by J. S. Brewer, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. 1859.

This is the celebrated treatise—never before printed—so frequently referred to by the great philosopher in his works. It contains the fullest details we possess of the life and labours of Roger Bacon: also a fragment by the same author, supposed to be unique, the "Compendium Studii Theologiæ."

16. Bartholomæi de Cotton, Monachi Norwicensis, Historia Anglicana; 449–1298: necnon ejusdem Liber de Archiepiscopis et Episcopis Angliæ. Edited by Henry Richards Luard, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1859.

The author, a monk of Norwich, has here given us a Chronicle of England from the arrival of the Saxons in 449 to the year 1298, in or about which year it appears that he died. The latter portion of this history (the whole of the reign of Edward I. more especially) is of great value, as the writer was contemporary with the events which he records. An Appendix contains several illustrative documents connected with the previous narrative.

17. Brut y Tywysogion; or, The Chronicle of the Princes of Wales. Edited by the Rev. John Williams ab Ithel, M.A. 1860.

This work, also known as "The Chronicle of the Princes of Wales," has been attributed to Caradoc of Llancarvan, who flourished about the middle of the twelfth century. It is written in the ancient Welsh language, begins with the abdication and death of Caedwala at Rome, in the year 681, and continues the history down to the subjugation of Wales by Edward I., about the year 1282.

18. A Collection of Royal and Historical Letters during the Reign of Henry IV. 1399–1404. Edited by the Rev. F. C. Hingeston, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1860.

This volume, like all the others in the series containing a miscellaneous selection of letters, is valuable on account of the light it throws upon biographical history, and the familiar view it presents of characters, manners, and events. The period requires much elucidation; to which it will materially contribute.

19. The Repressor of over much Blaming of the Clergy. By Reginald Pecock, sometime Bishop of Chichester. Vols. I. and II. Edited by Churchill Babington, B.D., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1860.

The "Repressor" may be considered the earliest piece of good theological disquisition of which our English prose literature can boast. The author was born about the end of the fourteenth century, consecrated Bishop of St. Asaph in the year 1444, and translated to the see of Chichester in 1450. While Bishop of St. Asaph, he zealously defended his brother prelates from the attacks of those who censured the bishops for their neglect of duty. He maintained that it was no part of a bishop's functions to appear in the pulpit, and that his time might be more profitably spent, and his dignity better maintained, in the performance of works of a higher character. Among those who thought differently were the Lollards, and against their general doctrines the "Repressor" is directed. Pecock took up a position midway between that of the Roman Church and that of the modern Anglican Church; but his work is interesting chiefly because it gives a full account of the views of the Lollards and of the arguments by which they were supported, and because it assists us to ascertain the state of feeling which ultimately led to the Reformation. Apart from religious matters, the light thrown upon contemporaneous history is very small, but the "Repressor" has great value for the philologist, as it tells us what were the characteristics of the language in use among the cultivated Englishmen of the fifteenth century. Pecock, though an opponent of the Lollards, showed a certain spirit of toleration, for which he received, towards the end of his life, the usual mediæval reward—persecution.

20. Annales Cambriæ. Edited by the Rev. John Williams ab Ithel, M.A. 1860.

These annals, which are in Latin, commence in the year 447, and come down to the year 1288. The earlier portion appears to be taken from an Irish Chronicle, which was also used by Tigernach, and by the compiler of the Annals of Ulster. During its first century it contains scarcely anything relating to Britain, the earliest direct concurrence with English history is relative to the mission of Augustine. Its notices throughout, though brief, are valuable. The annals were probably written at St. Davids, by Blegewryd, Archdeacon of Llandaff, the most learned man in his day in all Cymru.

21. The Works of Giraldus Cambrensis. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by J. S. Brewer, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. Vols. V., VI., and VII. Edited by the Rev. James F. Dimock, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire. 1861–1877.

These volumes contain the historical works of Gerald du Barry, who lived in the reigns of Henry II., Richard I., and John, and attempted to re-establish the independence of Wales by restoring the see of St. Davids to its ancient primacy. His works are of a very miscellaneous nature, both in prose and verse, and are remarkable chiefly for the racy and original anecdotes which they contain relating to contemporaries. He is the only Welsh writer of any importance who has contributed so much to the mediæval literature of this country, or assumed, in consequence of his nationality, so free and independent a tone. His frequent travels in Italy, in France, in Ireland, and in Wales, gave him opportunities for observation which did not generally fall to the lot of mediæval writers in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and of these observations Giraldus has made due use. Only extracts from these treatises have been printed before, and almost all of them are taken from unique manuscripts.

The Topographia Hibernica (in Vol. V.) is the result of Giraldus' two visits to Ireland. The first in the year 1183, the second in 1185–6, when he accompanied Prince John into that country. Curious as this treatise is, Mr. Dimock is of opinion that it ought not to be accepted as sober truthful history, for Giraldus himself states that truth was not his main object, and that he compiled the work for the purpose of sounding the praises of Henry the Second. Elsewhere, however, he declares that he had stated nothing in the Topographia of the truth of which he was not well assured, either by his own eyesight or by the testimony, with all diligence elicited, of the most trustworthy and authentic men in the country; that though he did not put just the same full faith in their reports as in what he had himself seen, yet, as they only related what they had themselves seen, he could not but believe such credible witnesses. A very interesting portion of this treatise is devoted to the animals of Ireland. It shows that he was a very accurate and acute observer, and his descriptions are given in a way that a scientific naturalist of the present day could hardly improve upon. The Expugnatio Hibernica was written about the year 1188 and may be regarded rather as a great epic than a sober relation of acts occurring in his own days. No one can peruse it without coming to the conclusion that it is rather a poetica-fiction than a prosaic truthful history.

Vol. VI. contains the Itinerarium Kambriæ et Descriptio Kambriæ: and Vol. VII., the lives of S. Remigius and S. Hugh.

22. Letters and Papers illustrative of the Wars of the English in France during the Reign of Henry the Sixth, King of England. Vol. I., and Vol. II. (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. Joseph Stevenson, M.A., of University College, Durham, and Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1861–1864.

The letters and papers contained in these volumes are derived chiefly from originals or contemporary copies extant in the Bibliothèque Impériale, and the Depôt des Archives, in Paris. They illustrate the line of policy adopted by John Duke of Bedford and his successors during their government of Normandy, and such other provinces of France as had been acquired by Henry V. We may here trace, step by step, the gradual declension of the English power, until we are prepared to read of its final overthrow.

23. The Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, according to the several Original Authorities. Vol. I., Original Texts. Vol. II., Translation. Edited and translated by Benjamin Thorpe, Esq., Member of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Munich, and of the Society of Netherlandish Literature at Leyden. 1861.

This Chronicle, extending from the earliest history of Britain to the year 1154, is justly the boast of England; for no other nation can produce any history, written in its own vernacular, at all approaching it, either in antiquity, truthfulness, or extent, the historical books of the Bible alone excepted. There are at present six independent manuscripts of the Saxon Chronicle, ending in different years, and written in different parts of the country. In this edition, the text of each manuscript is printed in columns on the same page, so that the student may see at a glance the various changes which occur in orthography, whether arising from locality or age.

24. Letters and Papers illustrative of the Reigns of Richard III. and Henry VII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by James Gairdner, Esq. 1861–1863.

The Papers are derived from MSS. in the Public Record Office, the British Museum, and other repositories. The period to which they refer is unusually destitute of chronicles and other sources of historical information, so that the light obtained from these documents is of special importance. The principal contents of the volumes are some diplomatic Papers of Richard III.; correspondence between Henry VII. and Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain; documents relating to Edmund de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk; and a portion of the correspondence of James IV. of Scotland.

25. Letters of Bishop Grosseteste, illustrative of the Social Condition of his Time. Edited by Henry Richards Luard, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1861.

The Letters of Robert Grosseteste (131 in number) are here collected from various sources, and a large portion of them is printed for the first time. They range in date from about 1210 to 1253, and relate to various matters connected not only with the political history of England during the reign of Henry III., but with its ecclesiastical condition. They refer especially to the diocese of Lincoln, of which Grosseteste was bishop.

26. Descriptive Catalogue of Manuscripts relating to the History of Great Britain and Ireland. Vol. I. (in Two Parts); Anterior to the Norman Invasion. Vol. II.; 1066–1200. Vol. III.; 1200–1327. By Sir Thomas Duffus Hardy, D.C.L., Deputy Keeper of the Public Records. 1862–1871.

The object of this work is to publish notices of all known sources of British history, both printed and unprinted, in one continued sequence. The materials, when historical (as distinguished from biographical), are arranged under the year in which the latest event is recorded in the chronicle or history, and not under the period in which its author, real or supposed, flourished. Biographies are enumerated under the year in which the person commemorated died, and not under the year in which the life was written. This arrangement has two advantages; the materials for any given period may be seen at a glance; and if the reader knows the time when an author wrote, and the number of years that had elapsed between the date of the events and the time the writer flourished, he will generally be enabled to form a fair estimate of the comparative value of the narrative itself. A brief analysis of each work has been added when deserving it, in which the original portions are distinguished from those which are mere compilations. When possible, the sources are indicated from which such compilations have been derived. A biographical sketch of the author of each piece has been added, and a brief notice has also been given of such British authors as have written on historical subjects.

27. Royal and other Historical Letters illustrative of the Reign of Henry III. Vol. I., 1216–1235. Vol. II., 1236–1272. Selected and edited by the Rev. W. W. Shirley, D.D., Regius Professor in Ecclesiastical History, and Canon of Christ Church, Oxford. 1862–1866.

The letters contained in these volumes are derived chiefly from the ancient correspondence formerly in the Tower of London, and now in the Public Record Office. They illustrate the political history of England during the growth of its liberties, and throw considerable light upon the personal history of Simon de Montfort. The affairs of France form the subject of many of them, especially in regard to the province of Gascony. The entire collection consists of nearly 700 documents, the greater portion of which is printed for the first time.

28. Chronica Monasterii S. Albani.—1. Thomæ Walsingham Historia Anglicana; Vol. I., 1272–1381: Vol. II., 1381–1422. 2. Willelmi Rishanger Chronica et Annales, 1259–1307. 3. Johannis de Trokelowe et Henrici de Blaneforde Chronica et Annales, 1259–1296; 1307–1324; 1392–1406. 4. Gesta Abbatum Monasterii S. Albani, a Thoma Walsingham, regnante Ricardo Secundo, ejusdem Ecclesiæ Præcentore, compilata; Vol. I., 793–1290: Vol. II., 1290–1349: Vol. III., 1349–1411. 5. Albani, qui sæculo XV^mo^ floruere; Vol. I., Registrum Abbatiæ Johannis Whethamstede, Abbatis Monasterii Sancti Albani, iterum susceptæ; Roberto Blakeney, Capellano, quondam adscriptum: Vol. II., Registra Johannis Whethamstede, Willelmi Albon, et Willelmi Walingforde, Abbatum Monasterii Sancti Albani, cum Appendice, continente quasdam Epistolas, a Johanne Whethamstede Conscriptas. 7. Ypodigma Neustriæ, a Thoma Walsingham, quondam Monacho Monasterii S. Albani, conscriptum. Edited by Henry Thomas Riley, Esq., M.A., Cambridge and Oxford; and of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law. 1863–1876.

In the first two volumes is a History of England, from the death of Henry III. to the death of Henry V., by Thomas Walsingham, Precentor of St. Albans, from MS. VII. in the Arundel Collection in the College of Arms, London, a manuscript of the fifteenth century, collated with MS. 13 E. IX. in the King's Library in the British Museum, and MS. VII. in the Parker Collection of Manuscripts at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

In the third volume is a Chronicle of English History, attributed to William Rishanger, who lived in the reign of Edward I., from the Cotton. MS. Faustina B. IX. in the British Museum, collated with MS. 14 C. VII. (fols. 219–231) in the King's Library, British Museum, and the Cotton MS. Claudius E. III., fols. 306–331: an account of transactions attending the award of the kingdom of Scotland to John Balliol, 1291–1292, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI., also attributed to William Rishanger, but on no sufficient ground: a short Chronicle of English History, 1292 to 1300, by an unknown hand, from MS. Cotton Claudius D. VI.: a short Chronicle, Willelmi Rishanger Gesta Edwardi Primi, Regis Angliæ, from MS. 14 C. I. in the Royal Library, and MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI., with Annales Regum Angliæ, probably by the same hand: and fragments of three Chronicles of English History, 1285 to 1307.

In the fourth volume is a Chronicle of English History, 1259 to 1296, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: Annals of Edward II., 1307 to 1323, by John de Trokelowe, a monk of St. Albans, and a continuation of Trokelowe's Annals, 1323, 1324, by Henry de Blaneforde, both from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: a full Chronicle of English History, 1392 to 1406, from MS. VII. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; and an account of the Benefactors of St. Albans, written in the early part of the fifteenth century, from MS. VI. in the same Library.

The fifth, sixth, and seventh volumes contain a history of the Abbots of St. Albans, 793 to 1411, mainly compiled by Thomas Walsingham, from MS. Cotton. Claudius E. IV., in the British Museum: with a Continuation, from the closing pages of Parker MS. VII., in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

The eighth and ninth volumes, in continuation of the Annals, contain a Chronicle, probably by John Amundesham, a monk of St. Albans.

The tenth and eleventh volumes relate especially to the acts and proceedings of Abbots Whethamstede, Albon, and Wallingford, and may be considered as a memorial of the chief historical and domestic events during those periods.

The twelfth volume contains a compendious History of England to the reign of Henry V., and of Normandy in early times, also by Thomas Walsingham, and dedicated to Henry V. The compiler has often substituted other authorities in place of those consulted in the preparation of his larger work.

29. Chronicon Abbatiæ Eveshamensis, Auctoribus Dominico Priore Eveshamiæ et Thoma de Marleberge Abbate, a Fundatione ad Annum 1213, una cum Continuatione ad Annum 1418. Edited by the Rev. W. D. Macray, M.A., Bodleian Library, Oxford. 1863.

The Chronicle of Evesham illustrates the history of that important monastery from its foundation by Egwin, about 690, to the year 1418. Its chief feature is an autobiography, which makes us acquainted with the inner daily life of a great abbey, such as but rarely has been recorded. Interspersed are many notices of general, personal, and local history which will be read with much interest. This work exists in a single MS., and is for the first time printed.

30. Ricardi de Cirencestria Speculum Historiale de Gestis Regum Angliæ. Vol. I., 447–871. Vol. II., 872–1066. Edited by John E. B. Mayor, M.A., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1863–1869.

The compiler, Richard of Cirencester, was a monk of Westminster, 1355–1400. In 1391 he obtained a licence to make a pilgrimage to Rome. His history, in four books, extends from 447 to 1066. He announces his intention of continuing it, but there is no evidence that he completed any more. This chronicle gives many charters in favour of Westminster Abbey, and a very full account of the lives and miracles of the saints, especially of Edward the Confessor, whose reign occupies the fourth book. A treatise on the Coronation, by William of Sudbury, a monk of Westminster, fills book iii. c. 3. It was on this author that C. J. Bertram fathered his forgery, De Situ Brittaniæ, in 1747.

31. Year Books of the Reign of Edward the First. Years 20–21, 21–22, 30–31, and 32–33. Edited and translated by Alfred John Horwood, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law. 1863–1873.

The volumes known as the "Year Books" contain reports in Norman-French of cases argued and decided in the Courts of Common Law. They may be considered to a great extent as the "lex non scripta" of England, and have been held in the highest veneration by the ancient sages of the law, and were received by them as the repositories of the first recorded judgments and dicta of the great legal luminaries of past ages. They are also worthy of the attention of the general reader on account of the historical information and the notices of public and private persons which they contain, as well as the light which they throw on ancient manners and customs.

32. Narratives of the Expulsion of the English from Normandy, 1449–1450.—Robertus Blondelli de Reductione Normanniæ: Le Recouvrement de Normendie, par Berry, Hérault du Roy: Conferences between the Ambassadors of France and England. Edited, from MSS. in the Imperial Library at Paris, by the Rev. Joseph Stevenson, M.A., of University College, Durham. 1863.

This volume contains the narrative of an eye-witness who details with considerable power and minuteness the circumstances which attended the final expulsion of the English from Normandy in the year 1450. The history commences with the infringement of the truce by the capture of Fougères, and ends with the battle of Formigny and the embarkation of the Duke of Somerset. The whole period embraced is less than two years.

33. Historia et Cartularium Monasterii S. Petri Gloucestriæ. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by W. H. Hart, Esq., F.S.A., Membre correspondant de la Société des Antiquaires de Normandie. 1863–1867.

This work consists of two parts, the History and the Cartulary of the Monastery of St. Peter, Gloucester. The history furnishes an account of the monastery from its foundation, in the year 681, to the early part of the reign of Richard II., together with a calendar of donations and benefactions. It treats principally of the affairs of the monastery, but occasionally matters of general history are introduced. Its authorship has generally been assigned to Walter Froucester, the twentieth abbot, but without any foundation.

34. Alexandri Neckam de Naturis Rerum libri duo; with Neckam's Poem, De Laudibus Divinæ Sapientiæ. Edited by Thomas Wright, Esq., M.A. 1863.

Neckam was a man who devoted himself to science, such as it was in the twelfth century. In the "De Naturis Rerum" are to be found what may be called the rudiments of many sciences mixed up with much error and ignorance. Neckam was not thought infallible, even by his contemporaries, for Roger Bacon remarks of him, "this Alexander in many things wrote what was true and useful; "but he neither can nor ought by just title to be reckoned among authorities." Neckam, however, had sufficient independence of thought to differ from some of the schoolmen who in his time considered themselves the only judges of literature. He had his own views in morals, and in giving us a glimpse of them, as well as of his other opinions, he throws much light upon the manners, customs, and general tone of thought prevalent in the twelfth century. The poem entitled "De Laudibus Divinæ Sapientiæ" appears to be a metrical paraphrase or abridgment of the "De Naturis Rerum." It is written in the elegiac metre; and though there are many lines which violate classical rules, it is, as a whole above the ordinary standard of mediæval Latin.

35. Leechdoms, Wortcunning, and Starcraft of Early England; being a Collection of Documents illustrating the History of Science in this Country before the Norman Conquest. Vols. I., II., and III. Collected and edited by the Rev. T. Oswald Cockayne, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1864–1866.

This work illustrates not only the history of science, but the history of superstition. In addition to the information bearing directly upon the medical skill and medical faith of the times, there are many passages which incidentally throw light upon the general mode of life and ordinary diet. The volumes are interesting not only in their scientific, but also in their social aspect. The manuscripts from which they have been printed are valuable to the Anglo-Saxon scholar for the illustrations they afford of Anglo-Saxon orthography.

36. Annales Monastici. Vol. I.:—Annales de Margan, 1066–1232; Annales de Theokesberia, 1066–1263; Annales de Burton, 1004–1263. Vol. II.:—Annales Monasterii de Wintonia, 519–1277; Annales Monasterii de Waverleia, 1–1291. Vol. III.:—Annales Prioratus de Dunstaplia, 1–1297; Annales Monasterii de Bermundeseia, 1042–

1432. Vol. IV. :—Annales Monasterii de Oseneia, 1016–1347; Chronicon vulgo dictum Chronicon Thomæ Wykes, 1066–1289; Annales Prioratus de Wigornia, 1–1377. Vol. V. :—Index and Glossary. Edited by Henry Richards Luard, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, and Registrary of the University, Cambridge. 1864–1869.

The present collection of Monastic Annals embraces all the more important chronicles compiled in religious houses in England during the thirteenth century. These distinct works are ten in number. The extreme period which they embrace ranges from the year 1 to 1432, although they refer more especially to the reigns of John, Henry III., and Edward I. Some of these narratives have already appeared in print, but others are printed for the first time.

37. Magna Vita S. Hugonis Episcopi Lincolniensis. From Manuscripts in the Bodleian Library, Oxford, and the Imperial Library, Paris. Edited by the Rev. James F. Dimock, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire. 1864.

This work contains a number of very curious and interesting incidents, and being the work of a contemporary, is very valuable, not only as a truthful biography of a celebrated ecclesiastic, but as the work of a man, who, from personal knowledge, gives notices of passing events, as well as of individuals who were then taking active part in public affairs. The author, in all probability, was Adam Abbot of Evesham. He was domestic chaplain and private confessor of Bishop Hugh, and in these capacities was admitted to the closest intimacy. Bishop Hugh was Prior of Witham for 11 years before he became Bishop of Lincoln. His consecration took place on the 21st September 1186; he died on the 16th of November 1200; and was canonized in 1220.

38. Chronicles and Memorials of the Reign of Richard the First. Vol. I. :—Itinerarium Peregrinorum et Gesta Regis Ricardi. Vol. II. :—Epistolæ Cantuarienses; the Letters of the Prior and Convent of Christ Church, Canterbury; 1187 to 1199. Edited by William Stubbs, M.A., Vicar of Navestock, Essex, and Lambeth Librarian. 1864–1865.

The authorship of the Chronicle in Vol. I., hitherto ascribed to Geoffrey Vinesauf, is now more correctly ascribed to Richard, Canon of the Holy Trinity of London. The narrative extends from 1187 to 1199; but its chief interest consists in the minute and authentic narrative which it furnishes of the exploits of Richard I., from his departure from England in December 1189 to his death in 1199. The author states in his prologue that he was an eye-witness of much that he records; and various incidental circumstances which occur in the course of the narrative confirm this assertion.

The letters in Vol. II., written between 1187 and 1199, are of value as furnishing authentic materials for the history of the ecclesiastical condition of England during the reign of Richard I. They had their origin in a dispute which arose from the attempts of Baldwin and Hubert, archbishops of Canterbury, to found a college of secular canons, a project which gave great umbrage to the monks of Canterbury, who saw in it a design to supplant them in their function of metropolitan chapter. These letters are printed, for the first time, from a MS. belonging to the archiepiscopal library at Lambeth.

39. Recueil des Croniques et anchiennes Istories de la Grant Bretaigne a present nomme Engleterre, par Jehan de Waurin. Vol. I. Albina to 688. Vol. II., 1399–1422. Edited by William Hardy, Esq., F.S.A. 1864–1868.

40. A Collection of the Chronicles and ancient Histories of Great Britain, now called England, by John de Wavrin. Albina to 688. (Translation of the preceding Vol. I.) Edited and translated by William Hardy, Esq., F.S.A. 1864.

This curious chronicle extends from the fabulous period of history down to the return of Edward IV. to England in the year 1471, after the second deposition of Henry VI. The manuscript from which the text of the work is taken is preserved in the Imperial Library at Paris, and is believed to be the only complete and nearly contemporary copy in existence. The work, as originally bound, was comprised in six volumes, since rebound in morocco in 12 volumes, folio maximo, vellum, and is illustrated with exquisite miniatures, vignettes, and initial letters. It was written towards the end of the fifteenth century, having been expressly executed for Louis de Bruges, Seigneur de la Gruthuyse and Earl of Winchester, from whose cabinet it passed into the library of Louis XII. at Blois.

41. Polychronicon Ranulphi Higden, with Trevisa's Translation. Vols. I. and II. Edited by Churchill Babington, B.D., Senior Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. Vols. III., IV., V., and VI. Edited by the Rev. Joseph Rawson Lumby, B.D., Vicar of St. Edward's, Fellow of St. Catharine's College, and late Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge. 1865–1876.

This is one of the many mediæval chronicles which assume the character of a history of the world. It begins with the creation, and is brought down to the author's own time, the reign of Edward III. Prefixed to the historical portion, is a chapter devoted to geography, in which is given a description of every known land. To say that the Polychronicon was written in the fourteenth century is to say that it is not free from inaccuracies. It has, however, a value apart from its intrinsic merits. It enables us to form a very fair estimate of the knowledge of history and geography which well-informed readers of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries possessed, for it was then the standard work on general history.

The two English translations, which are printed with the original Latin, afford interesting illustrations of the gradual change of our language, for one was made in the fourteenth century, the other in the fifteenth. The differences between Trevisa's version and that of the unknown writer are often considerable.

42. Le Livere de Reis de Brittanie e Le Livere de Reis de Engletere. Edited by John Glover, M.A., Vicar of Brading, Isle of Wight, formerly Librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1865.

These two treatises, though they cannot rank as independent narratives, are nevertheless valuable as careful abstracts of previous historians, especially "Le Livere de Reis de Engletere." Some various readings are given which are interesting to the philologist as instances of semi-Saxonized French.

It is supposed that Peter of Ickham must have been the author, but no certain conclusion on that point has been arrived at.

43. Chronica Monasterii de Melsa, ab Anno 1150 usque ad Annum 1406. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by Edward Augustus Bond, Esq., Assistant Keeper of the Manuscripts, and Egerton Librarian, British Museum. 1866–1868.

The Abbey of Meaux was a Cistercian house, and the work of its abbot is both curious and valuable. It is a faithful and often minute record of the establishment of a religious community, of its progress in forming an ample revenue, of its struggles to maintain its acquisitions, and of its relations to the governing institutions of the country. In addition to the private affairs of the monastery, some light is thrown upon the public events of the time, which are however kept distinct, and appear at the end of the history of each abbot's administration. The text has been printed from what is said to be the autograph of the original compiler, Thomas de Burton, the nineteenth abbot.

44. Matthæi Parisiensis Historia Anglorum, sive, ut vulgo dicitur, Historia Minor. Vols. I., II., and III. 1067–1253. Edited by Sir Frederic Madden, K.H., Keeper of the Department of Manuscripts, British Museum. 1866–1869.

The exact date at which this work was written is, according to the chronicler, 1250. The history is of considerable value as an illustration of the period during which the author lived, and contains a good summary of the events which followed the Conquest. This minor chronicle is, however, based on another work (also written by Matthew Paris) giving fuller details, which has been called the "Historia Major." The chronicle here published, nevertheless, gives some information not to be found in the greater history.

45. Liber Monasterii de Hyda: a Chronicle and Chartulary of Hyde Abbey, Winchester, 455–1023. Edited, from a Manuscript in the Library of the Earl of Macclesfield, by Edward Edwards, Esq. 1866.

The "Book of Hyde" is a compilation from much earlier sources which are usually indicated with considerable care and precision. In many cases, however, the Hyde chronicler appears to correct, to qualify, or to amplify—either from tradition or from sources of information not now discoverable—the statements, which, in substance, he adopts. He also mentions, and frequently quotes from writers whose works are either entirely lost or at present known only by fragments.

There is to be found, in the "Book of Hyde," much information relating to the reign of King Alfred which is not known to exist elsewhere. The volume contains some curious specimens of Anglo-Saxon and Mediæval English.

46. Chronicon Scotorum: a Chronicle of Irish Affairs, from the Earliest Times to 1135; with a Supplement, containing the Events from 1141 to 1150 Edited, with a Translation, by William Maunsell Hennessy, Esq., M.R.I.A. 1866.

There is, in this volume, a legendary account of the peopling of Ireland and of the adventures which befell the various heroes who are said to have been connected with Irish history. The details are, however, very meagre both for this period and for the time when history becomes more authentic. The plan adopted in the chronicle gives the appearance of an accuracy to which the earlier portions of the work cannot have any claim. The succession of events is marked, year by year, from A.M. 1599 to A.D. 1150. The principal events narrated in the later portion of the work are, the invasions of foreigners, and the wars of the Irish among themselves. The text has been printed from a MS. preserved in the library of Trinity College, Dublin, written partly in Latin, partly in Irish.

47. The Chronicle of Pierre de Langtoft, in French Verse, from the earliest Period to the Death of Edward I. Vols. I. and II. Edited by Thomas Wright, Esq., M.A. 1866–1868.

It is probable that Pierre de Langtoft was a canon of Bridlington, in Yorkshire, and that he lived in the reign of Edward I., and during a portion of the reign of Edward II. This chronicle is divided into three parts; in the first is an abridgment of Geoffrey of Monmouth's "Historia Britonum," in the second, a history of the Anglo-Saxon and Norman kings, down to the death of Henry III., and in the third a history of the reign of Edward I. The principal object of the work was apparently to show the justice of Edward's Scottish wars. The language is singularly corrupt, and a curious specimen of the French of Yorkshire.

48. The War of the Gaedhil with the Gaill, or, The Invasions of Ireland by the Danes and other Norsemen. Edited, with a Translation, by James Henthorn Todd D.D., Senior Fellow of Trinity College, and Regius Professor of Hebrew in the University, Dublin. 1867.

The work in its present form, in the editor's opinion, is a comparatively modern version of an undoubtedly ancient original. That it was compiled from contemporary materials has been proved by curious incidental evidence. It is stated in the account given of the battle of Clontarf that the full tide in Dublin Bay on the day of the battle (23 April 1014) coincided with sunrise; and that the returning tide in the evening aided considerably in the defeat of the Danes. The fact has been verified by astronomical calculations, and the inference is that the author of the chronicle, if not himself an eye-witness, must have derived his information from those who were eye-witnesses. The contents of the work are sufficiently described in its title. The story is told after the manner of the Scandinavian Sagas, with poems and fragments of poems introduced into the prose narrative.

49. Gesta Regis Henrici Secundi Benedicti Abbatis. The Chronicle of the Reigns of Henry II. and Richard I., 1169–1192; known under the name of BENEDICT OF PETERBOROUGH. Vols. I. and II. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, Oxford, and Lambeth Librarian. 1867.

This chronicle of the reigns of Henry II. and Richard I., known commonly under the name of Benedict of Peterborough, is one of the best existing specimens of a class of historical compositions of the first importance to the student.

50. MUNIMENTA ACADEMICA, OR, DOCUMENTS ILLUSTRATIVE OF ACADEMICAL LIFE AND STUDIES AT OXFORD (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. HENRY ANSTEY, M.A., Vicar of St. Wendron, Cornwall, and lately Vice-Principal of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. 1868.

This work will supply materials for a History of Academical Life and Studies in the University of Oxford during the 13th, 14th, and 15th centuries.

51. CHRONICA MAGISTRI ROGERI DE HOUEDENE. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1868–1871.

This work has long been justly celebrated, but not thoroughly understood until Mr. Stubbs' edition. The earlier portion, extending from 732 to 1148, appears to be a copy of a compilation made in Northumbria about 1161, to which Hoveden added little. From 1148 to 1169—a very valuable portion of this work—the matter is derived from another source, to which Hoveden appears to have supplied little, and not always judiciously. From 1170 to 1192 is the portion which corresponds with the Chronicle known under the name of Benedict of Peterborough (see No. 49); but it is not a copy, being sometimes an abridgment, at others a paraphrase; occasionally the two works entirely agree; showing that both writers had access to the same materials, but dealt with them differently. From 1192 to 1201 may be said to be wholly Hoveden's work: it is extremely valuable, and an authority of the first importance.

52. WILLELMI MALMESBIRIENSIS MONACHI DE GESTIS PONTIFICUM ANGLORUM LIBRI QUINQUE. Edited, from William of Malmesbury's Autograph MS., by N. E. S. A. HAMILTON, Esq., of the Department of Manuscripts, British Museum. 1870.

William of Malmesbury's "Gesta Pontificum" is the principal foundation of English Ecclesiastical Biography, down to the year 1122. The manuscript which has been followed in this Edition is supposed by Mr. Hamilton to be the author's autograph, containing his latest additions and amendments.

53. HISTORIC AND MUNICIPAL DOCUMENTS OF IRELAND, FROM THE ARCHIVES OF THE CITY OF DUBLIN, &c. 1172–1320. Edited by JOHN T. GILBERT, Esq., F.S.A., Secretary of the Public Record Office of Ireland. 1870.

A collection of original documents, elucidating mainly the history and condition of the municipal, middle, and trading classes under or in relation with the rule of England in Ireland,—a subject hitherto in almost total obscurity. Extending over the first hundred and fifty years of the Anglo-Norman settlement, the series includes charters, municipal laws and regulations, rolls of names of citizens and members of merchant-guilds, lists of commodities with their rates, correspondence, illustrations of relations between ecclesiastics and laity; together with many documents exhibiting the state of Ireland during the presence there of the Scots under Robert and Edward Bruce.

54. THE ANNALS OF LOCH CÉ. A CHRONICLE OF IRISH AFFAIRS, FROM 1014 to 1590. Vols. I. and II. Edited, with a Translation, by WILLIAM MAUNSELL HENNESSY, Esq., M.R.I.A. 1871.

The original of this chronicle has passed under various names. The title of "Annals of Loch Cé" was given to it by Professor O'Curry, on the ground that it was transcribed for Brian Mac Dermot, an Irish chieftain, who resided on the island in Loch Cé, in the county of Roscommon. It adds much to the materials for the civil and ecclesiastical history of Ireland; and contains many curious references to English and foreign affairs, not noticed in any other chronicle.

55. Monumenta Juridica. The Black Book of the Admiralty, with Appendices. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by Sir Travers Twiss, Q.C., D.C.L. 1871–1876.

This book contains the ancient ordinances and laws relating to the navy, and was probably compiled for the use of the Lord High Admiral of England. Selden calls it the "jewel of the Admiralty Records." Prynne ascribes to the Black Book the same authority in the Admiralty as the Black and Red Books have in the Court of Exchequer, and most English writers on maritime law recognize its importance.

56. Memorials of the Reign of Henry VI.:—Official Correspondence of Thomas Bekynton, Secretary to Henry VI., and Bishop of Bath and Wells. Edited, from a MS. in the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth, with an Appendix of Illustrative Documents, by the Rev. George Williams, B.D., Vicar of Ringwood, late Fellow of King's College, Cambridge. Vols. I. and II. 1872.

These curious volumes are of a miscellaneous character, and were probably compiled under the immediate direction of Bekynton before he had attained to the Episcopate. They contain many of the Bishop's own letters, and several written by him in the King's name; also letters to himself while Royal Secretary, and others addressed to the King. This work elucidates some points in the history of the nation during the first half of the fifteenth century.

57. Matthæi Parisiensis, Monachi Sancti Albani, Chronica Majora. Vol. I. The Creation to A.D. 1066. Vol. II. A.D. 1067 to A.D. 1216. Vol. III. A.D. 1216 to A.D. 1239. Vol. IV. A.D. 1240 to A.D. 1247. Edited by Henry Richards Luard, D.D., Fellow of Trinity College, Registrary of the University, and Vicar of Great St. Mary's, Cambridge. 1872–1877.

This work contains the "Chronica Majora" of Matthew Paris, one of the most valuable and frequently consulted of the ancient English Chronicles. It is published from its commencement, for the first time. The editions by Archbishop Parker, and William Wats, severally begin at the Norman Conquest.

58. Memoriale Fratris Walteri de Coventria.—The Historical Collections of Walter of Coventry. Vols. I. and II. Edited, from the MS. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, by William Stubbs, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1872–1873.

This work, now printed in full for the first time, has long been a desideratum by Historical Scholars. The first portion, however, is not of much importance, being only a compilation from earlier writers. The part relating to the first quarter of the thirteenth century is the most valuable and interesting.

59. The Anglo-Latin Satirical Poets and Epigrammatists of the Twelfth Century. Vols. I. and II. Now first collected and edited by Thomas Wright, Esq., M.A., Corresponding Member of the National Institute of France (Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres). 1872.

The Poems contained in these volumes have long been known and appreciated as the best satires of the age in which their authors flourished, and were deservedly popular during the 13th and 14th centuries.

60. Materials for a History of the Reign of Henry VII., from original Documents preserved in the Public Record Office. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. William Campbell, M.A., one of Her Majesty's Inspectors of Schools. 1873–1877.

These volumes are valuable as illustrating the acts and proceedings of Henry VII. on ascending the throne, and shadow out the policy he afterwards adopted.

61. Historical Papers and Letters from the Northern Registers. Edited by James Raine, M.A., Canon of York, and Secretary of the Surtees Society. 1873.

The documents in this volume illustrate, for the most part, the general history of the north of England, particularly in its relation to Scotland.

62. Registrum Palatinum Dunelmense. The Register of Richard de Kellawe, Lord Palatine and Bishop of Durham; 1311–1316. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by Sir Thomas Duffus Hardy, D.C.L., Deputy Keeper of the Public Records. 1873–1878.

Bishop Kellawe's Register contains the proceedings of his prelacy, both lay and ecclesiastical, and is the earliest Register of the Palatinate of Durham.

63. Memorials of Saint Dunstan Archbishop of Canterbury. Edited, from various MSS., by William Stubbs, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1874.

This volume contains several lives of Archbishop Dunstan, one of the most celebrated Primates of Canterbury. They open various points of Historical and Literary interest, without which our knowledge of the period would be more incomplete than it is at present.

64. Chronicon Angliæ, ab Anno Domini 1328 usque ad Annum 1388, auctore Monacho quodam Sancti Albani. Edited by Edward Maunde Thompson, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, and Assistant-Keeper of the Manuscripts in the British Museum. 1874.

This chronicle gives a circumstantial history of the close of the reign of Edward III. which has hitherto been considered lost.

65. Thómas Saga Erkibyskups. A Life of Archbishop Thomas Becket, in Icelandic. Vol. I. Edited, with English Translation, Notes, and Glossary, by M. Eiríkr Magnússon, Sub-Librarian of the University Library, Cambridge. 1875.

This work is derived from the Life of Becket written by Benedict of Peterborough, and apparently supplies the missing portions in Benedict's biography.

66. Radulphi de Coggeshall Chronicon Anglicanum. Edited by the Rev. Joseph Stevenson, M.A. 1875.

This volume contains the "Chronicon Anglicanum," by Ralph of Coggeshall, the "Libellus de Expugnatione Terræ Sanctæ per Saladinum," usually ascribed to the same author, and other pieces of an interesting character.

67. Materials for the History of Thomas Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by the Rev. James Craigie Robertson, M.A., Canon of Canterbury. 1875–1877.

This Publication will comprise all contemporary materials for the history of Archbishop Thomas Becket. The first volume contains the life of that celebrated man, and the miracles after his death, by William, a monk of Canterbury. The second, the life by Benedict of Peterborough; John of Salisbury; Alan of Tewkesbury; and Edward Grim. The third, the life by William Fitzstephen; and Herbert of Bosham.

68. Radulfi de Diceto Decani Lundoniensis Opera Historica. The Historical Works of Master Ralph de Diceto, Dean of London. Vols. I. and II. Edited, from the Original Manuscripts, by William Stubbs, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1876.

The Historical Works of Ralph de Diceto are some of the most valuable materials for British History. The Abbreviationes Chronicorum extend from the Creation to 1147, and the Ymagines Historiarum to 1201.

69. Roll of the Proceedings of the King's Council in Ireland for a Portion of the 16th Year of the Reign of Richard II. 1392–93. Edited by the Rev. James Graves, A.B. 1877.

The Roll printed in this volume throws considerable light on the History of Ireland at a period when little is known of it, and seems to be the only document of the kind extant.

WORKS PUBLISHED IN PHOTOZINCOGRAPHY.

DOMESDAY BOOK, or the GREAT SURVEY OF ENGLAND OF WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR, 1086; fac-simile of the Part relating to each county, separately (with a few exceptions of double counties). Photozincographed, by Her Majesty's Command, at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton, Colonel SIR HENRY JAMES, R.E., F.R.S., &c., Director. 35 Parts, imperial quarto and demy quarto (1861–1863) boards. Price 4*s.* 6*d.* to 1*l.* 1*s.* each Part, according to size; or, bound in 2 Vols., 18*l.* (The two volume edition is out of print.)

This important and unique survey of the greater portion of England* is the oldest and most valuable record in the national archives. It was commenced about the year 1084 and finished in 1086. Its compilation was determined upon at Gloucester by William the Conqueror, in council, in order that he might know what was due to him, in the way of tax, from his subjects, and that each at the same time might know what he had to pay. It was compiled as much for their protection as for the benefit of the sovereign. The nobility and people had been grievously distressed at the time by the king bringing over large numbers of French and Bretons, and quartering them on his subjects, "each according to the measure of his land," for the purpose of resisting the invasion of Cnut, King of Denmark, which was apprehended. The commissioners appointed to make the survey were to inquire the name of each place; who held it in the time of King Edward the Confessor; the present possessor; how many hides were in the manor; how many ploughs were in demesne; how many homagers; how many villeins; how many cottars; how many serving men; how many free tenants; how many tenants in soccage; how much wood, meadow, and pasture; the number of mills and fish-ponds; what had been added or taken away from the place; what was the gross value in the time of Edward the Confessor; the present value; and how much each free man or soc-man had, and whether any advance could be made in the value. Thus could be ascertained who held the estate in the time of King Edward; who then held it; its value in the time of the late king; and its value as it stood at the formation of the survey. So minute was the survey, that the writer of the contemporary portion of the Saxon Chronicle records, with some asperity—"So very narrowly he caused it to be traced out, that there was not a single hide, nor one virgate of land, nor even, it is shame to tell, though it seemed to him no shame to do, an ox, nor a cow, nor a swine was left, that was not set down."

Domesday Survey is in two parts or volumes. The first, in folio, contains the counties of Bedford, Berks, Bucks, Cambridge, Chester and Lancaster, Cornwall, Derby, Devon, Dorset, Gloucester, Hants, Hereford, Herts, Huntingdon, Kent, Leicester and Rutland, Lincoln, Middlesex, Northampton, Nottingham, Oxford, Salop, Somerset, Stafford, Surrey, Sussex, Warwick, Wilts, Worcester, and York. The second volume, in quarto, contains the counties of Essex. Norfolk, and Suffolk.

Domesday Book was printed verbatim et literatim during the last century, in consequence of an address of the House of Lords to King George III. in 1767. It was not, however, commenced until 1773, and was completed early in 1783. In 1860, Her Majesty's Government, with the concurrence of the Master of the Rolls, determined to apply the art of photozincography to the production of a fac-simile of Domesday Book, under the superintendence of Colonel Sir Henry James, R.E., Director of the Ordnance Survey, Southampton. The fac-simile was completed in 1863.

* For some reason left unexplained, many parts were left unsurveyed; Northumberland, Cumberland, Westmoreland, and Durham, are not described in the survey; nor does Lancashire appear under its proper name; but Furness, and the northern part of Lancashire, as well as the south of Westmoreland, with a part of Cumberland, are included within the West Riding of Yorkshire. That part of Lancashire which lies between the Ribble and Mersey, and which at the time of the survey comprehended 688 manors, is joined to Cheshire. Part of Rutland is described in the counties of Northampton and Lincoln.

FAC-SIMILES of NATIONAL MANUSCRIPTS, from WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR to QUEEN ANNE, selected under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, and Photozincographed, by Command of Her Majesty, by Colonel SIR HENRY JAMES, R.E., Director of the Ordnance Survey. Price, each Part, with translations and notes, double foolscap folio, 16*s*.

Part I. (William the Conqueror to Henry VII.). 1865.
Part II. (Henry VIII. and Edward VI.). 1866.
Part III. (Mary and Elizabeth). 1867.
Part IV. (James I. to Anne). 1868.

The first Part extends from William the Conqueror to Henry VII., and contains autographs of the kings of England, as well as of many other illustrious personages famous in history, and some interesting charters, letters patent, and state papers. The second Part, for the reigns of Henry VIII. and Edward VI., consists principally of holograph letters and autographs of kings, princes, statesmen, and other persons of great historical interest, who lived during those reigns. The third Part contains similar documents for the reigns of Mary and Elizabeth, including a signed bill of Lady Jane Grey. The fourth Part concludes the series, and comprises a number of documents taken from the originals belonging to the Constable of the Tower of London; also several records illustrative of the Gunpowder Plot, and a woodcut containing portraits of Mary Queen of Scots and James VI., circulated by their adherents in England, 1580-3.
